Police Finish Streamlining Of Rule Book

New Regulations Go Into Effect Tonight; Reorganization Eyed

Marion police will begin the new year operating under a new streamlined set of rules and regulations which in addition to covering every phase of police duties also sets forth a reorganization of the division of police.

Painstakingly prepared by Safety-Service Director Ralph Forrest and Police Chief Tom Coon, the new rules and instructions become effective as of midnight tonight.

3 Platoons Planned

Significant to the future operation of the police department is the establishment of a three-platoon system. The platoon designation will replace the present designations of first, second and third tricks for each of the three 8-hour shifts in which the department is divided. It is part of a long-range reorganization program planned by Coon.

Also established is a detective bureau which will contain within it a juvenile bureau. Patrolmen assigned to this bureau will be designated detectives.

The new rules also establish a traffic bureau which will primarily be charged with enforcement of traffic laws in the city. This bureau will become fully operative provided additional patrolmen are added to the department by City Council as requested by Chief Coon. Presently one of the department's three regular prowl cars has been designated a traffic enforcement car.

Actually the new rules and regulations are a compilation and revision of previous rules which have been in force, Chief Coon said. Presently they are in mimeograph form, 62 pages long, and a copy has been provided each member of the department. As soon as possible the revised rules will be printed in pocket size book form so each policeman may carry one on his person as a part of his regular equipment.

First Since 1939

This is the first time since 1939 the rules and regulations have been revised and streamlined, Coon said. The new rules also include regulations which were included in the recently adopted Revised Ohio General Code. "They are right up to date," Coon said. Eliminated were former rules which are no longer applicable to police work, he explained.

Included in the many paragraphs of instructions are explanations of the requirements of various city and state laws, first aid directions, procedures for investigations at crime scenes, similar information for traffic accident investigation, and much more on the duties of the police.

"In short, this book will be a guide to every member of the department in the exact performance of his duties," Chief Coon said.

Fighters Gain In Battle With 2 Forest Fires

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Firefighters were winning their battle today against two forest blazes which have caused an estimated six and one-half million dollars damage to the watershed in the San Gabriel mountains.

Observatory and television installations atop Mt. Wilson, threatened several times since fire broke out Sunday on Monrovia peak, appeared to be safe, rangers said.

Richard Johnson, U.S. Forest Service fire prevention officer, said crews hope to have the blaze under control tomorrow, unless the wind rises.

He also said the second fire, 20 miles east in the Mt. Baldy region, might be controlled today under the same condition.

Phone company officials said that programs originating here, such as tomorrow's Tournament of Roses and the Rose Bowl game, could be piped out of Los Angeles by coaxial cable even if the Mt. Wilson installations were burned out.

Shirley Cain Killed In Oklahoma; Others Reported as Critical

A Marion County man is dead, his wife is in critical condition, and another Marion County husband and wife are in serious condition in Oklahoma hospitals following a head-on collision Wednesday evening, according to word received by Marion relatives.

Dead is Mr. Shirley Cain of Caledonia.

In critical condition is his wife, Geneva.

In serious condition are Mr. and Mrs. Paul Clutter of near Marion

En Route to California

The fatality and injuries resulted from the accident which occurred near Vinita, Okla., which is approximately 60 miles northeast of Tulsa. The two couples were enroute to visit a son and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Clutter, who reside near San Diego, Calif. Mrs. Ivan Clutter is the former Joan Cain.

Word of the accident was first received last night by Mrs. Ralph Clutter of 237 Homer St., when a Tulsa ambulance driver called her. Ralph Clutter and the injured Mr. Clutter are brothers.

Marion area relatives last night and today were on their way to Oklahoma. Leaving by car last night were William F. Cain of Canton and Dale Cain of Mansfield, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Cain. William and his wife, Betty, were visiting at the Cain home in Caledonia.

Leaving by airplane early this morning were a son, Jimmie Cain who resides at home, and a daughter, Mrs. Glenna Baker of Marion.

Expected to arrive sometime this evening is Willis Clutter of Ashley, a son of the Clutters.

Caused by Blowout

According to information received from the Oklahoma funeral home, the accident happened when a car, pulling onto the highway from a side road, had a blowout and the woman driver lost control of the vehicle. It was not known whether she was injured.

All four Marion Countians were taken to a hospital in Vinita, but later Mrs. Clutter was transferred to a Tulsa hospital.

Ike Awaiting Key Advisers on State Of Union Message

AUGUSTA, Ga. (AP) — President Eisenhower awaited the arrival today of a team of key advisers before writing the final draft of his Jan. 7 State of the Union message to Congress.

The group flying from Washington included officials whose views the President wants on what he regards as the most important aspects of the message—foreign affairs and federal spending, particularly military spending.

Those officials are Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge Jr., chief U.S. delegate to the United Nations, and Budget Director Joseph M. Dodge.

They sent on in advance a preliminary draft of the message, which the President studied yesterday.

After spending the morning on that task, Eisenhower brushed up on his golf on the practice tee at the Augusta National course. Intermittant rain kept him from playing a round.

U.S. Retaliates As Romanians Ban Magazine

Legation Is Ordered To Stop Publication Of Red Matter in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP)—The State Department today ordered the Romanian legation "to stop publication of a newspaper and other communist publications in the United States immediately."

A Department statement said the action was taken as a result of the Romanian government's banning of a monthly publication issued by the American legation in Bucharest on Dec. 29. This publication, called "News From America" and printed in Romanian, was first issued last October with a circulation of about 1600 copies, the State Department said.

Rep. Overton Brooks (D-La) issued a statement this week protesting publication in the United States of the Romanian weekly periodical, called "The Romanian News."

A State Department spokesman said the banning of this paper was taken because of the Romanian prohibition of the American publication and was not related to Brooks' protest.

Reserve Hitch Cut for Many Released Vets

WASHINGTON (AP)—Draftees who get out of the Army in the next six months in six selected states will have time clipped off their obligatory reserve status because the Army wants to try an administrative experiment.

Each To Be Assigned

Beginning tomorrow and extending through the first half of 1954, each draftee in six states who has completed two years of active duty will be handed a mobilization assignment to an active Army, a National Guard of a reserve organization.

If another war comes during the next five years he will report immediately to his assigned unit. If it doesn't come, the draftee doesn't have to do anything, although the Army hopes he will join an organized reserve unit or the National Guard and take regular training, including summer training.

But whether he joins an organized unit or doesn't, a draftee living in New Jersey, Pennsylvania, Georgia, Texas, Wisconsin or Washington will have one year cut off the six-year obligatory active reserve status required under the draft act.

Doesn't Apply to Others

That doesn't apply to draftees in the other 42 states and the territories. The six states were picked by the commanders of the nation's six Army areas, each of which includes several military districts or states.

What the Army wants to find out, primarily, is how the experimental system would work nationwide. Essentially, it is an exercise in mobilization administration. Secondarily, the Army hopes that at least some of the released draftees actually will take interest and report for periodic training.

If they don't there is no way the Army can compel them or any other ex-draftee to be active in the reserves.

It is a problem the Army has attempted to solve by inducements and proposed legislation.

Indians Say 135 Chinese Want Return

Total of 4,385 POWs Receive Chance To Accept Repatriation

PANMUNJM (AP)—Indian troops made a year-end head count of Chinese war prisoners in their custody today and 135 of the 4,385 checked asked to return to Communist China.

An Indian spokesman emphasized that the count was not a screening and did not substitute for interviews, which ended Dec. 23.

However, Indian guards gave prisoners wishing to return home every chance to ask for repatriation.

May Cover 22

There was no indication whether the count would be extended to the pro-Communist North Camp, which holds 22 Americans who refused to return home.

Nor was there any indication whether the count would be extended to North and South Koreans or the one Englishman in custody.

The 135 of 4,385 tally was about 3.1 per cent, approximately the same as for the 10 days when prisoners attended explanations.

Officially, the count is being made to give the Indian command an opportunity to check its prisoner rosters and to find out exactly how many captives it holds.

An Indian spokesman emphasized that "any requests for repatriation must be regarded as entirely incidental to the head count." But observers pointed out that the method used approached a de facto screening.

Handed Slip

Prisoners walked one at a time into the wire-enclosed corridor around the compound and were handed a piece of paper on which each wrote his name and serial number.

The prisoners were kept several feet apart as they moved along the so-called chicken run to a gate where they handed the slip of paper to an Indian officer for checking against a master roster.

Each captive was alone with the officer for several seconds—long enough to ask to go back to Red China if he wished.

20,000 Not Interviewed

The count began in enclosure B, which has 10 compounds holding Chinese prisoners listed as refusing to go back to Communist rule. Prisoners from a few compounds were interviewed by Red explainers prior to Dec. 23. Many of the captives, however, have not been asked whether they want to return home.

Approximately 20,000 anti-Communist prisoners and 100 pro-Communists—including 22 Americans—were not interviewed during the 90-day period provided by the Korean armistice.

HOUSTON (AP)—A bandit flashing a gun for a moment, escaped with an estimated $50,000 from the Houston National Bank this morning.

The bandit, making a daring foray into the bank offices in an underground vault, pulled the gun on Donny N. Allen, 19, and ordered him to put several stacks of 20s, 10s, and 5s into a leather brief case he was carrying.

Young Allen said the gunman was about 28-years-old.

Cleveland Bank Robbery Nets Pair $16,000

CLEVELAND (AP)—Two men, carrying three guns and wearing silk stockings over their heads, robbed the Memphis Avenue branch of the Bank of Ohio of about $16,000 a few minutes after it opened today.

Eleven bank employes and two customers were in the bank during the three or four minute holdup. The gunmen spurned large denomination bills and left plenty of additional cash in easy reach as they filled a torn and dirty paper shopping bag with currency.

They dashed out to a parking lot, drove a car around buildings to another part of the lot, got into a second auto waiting there and sped north toward the downtown area on Fulton Road.

Joseph E. Nagy, 45, the bank manager, said he was sitting at his desk when one of the men jammed two guns in his face and told him to sit still.

Nagy said they announced: "This is a holdup—everybody line up against the wall. If you give us any trouble, we'll shoot your boss."

In addition to Nagy, there were four tellers, four bookkeepers, an assistant manager and two customers in the bank at the time, and another woman employe entered during the robbery.

In spite of the gunmen's warning, four women employes ran to the basement where one of them tripped an alarm signal.

Auditor A. C. Meibuhr estimated the cash stolen at about $16,000. Assistant manager Richard L. Coakwell said the holdup men took some cash, "but not much—they left a lot of it lying around."

Ike, Knowland Differ on New Work Program

Senator Asserts Plan To Cut Unemployment Must Undergo Change

WASHINGTON (AP) — Disagreement has broken out between President Eisenhower and his chief lieutenant in the Senate, Sen. Knowland of California, over a new Administration program to combat unemployment.

Just a week before the opening of Congress next Wednesday, Knowland called the new policy a disappointment and said he would back legislation to modify it. He took that position in the face of Eisenhower's statement two days ago declaring "complete agreement" with the policy.

Extent Not Known

Whether the disagreement would affect Knowland's attitude toward other White House policies could not be foretold.

The policy is designed to steer some government defense contracts into areas plagued by large scale unemployment.

Southern Democrats voiced bitter outcries of protest over the program, similar to one put into effect by the Truman Administration in 1952 and dropped last August.

Sen. Maybank (D-SC) said in a statement today he would "introduce legislation the very first instance I can" to prevent the program from being carried out.

But even if Congress should block or drastically curb the program, there remained the facts of Knowland's unequivocal opposition to it and the as yet unappraised effect the incident might have on Democratic support for Eisenhower's legislative program.

Says Democrats Alienated

Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala) said the President seemed to be "doing everything in his power calculated to drive the Democrats away from giving him support on his program." Actually, a few Northern Democrats praised the unemployment move; the opposition was concentrated in the South.

Southern Democrats have also

Federal Take On Individual Earnings Cut

All but Top Brackets Dip 10 Per Cent; Levy On Excess Profit Dies

WASHINGTON (AP) — Uncle Sam presents a New Year's gift tomorrow to more than 50 million individuals and 50,000 corporations—the first general tax cuts in five years.

Starting tomorrow, these three big changes will give a new look to the government's revenue structures:

1. Individual income tax rates will drop about 10 per cent for all except the highest brackets, chopping three billion dollars annually off federal revenue.

2. The excess profits tax on corporations will expire, reducing government income about two billion dollars annually.

3. The social security payroll tax, levied on both employes and employers, will go up from 1½ to 2 per cent. It is collected on the first $3,600 paid annually to a worker. That will increase income to the special social security trust fund by almost 1½ billions annually.

Bigger Break Possible

Drives already have started on two fronts to give even bigger breaks to taxpayers during the congressional election year of 1954.

Chairman Daniel A. Reed (R-NY) of the tax-writing House Ways and Means Committee, has said the 10 per cent income tax cut is not enough and he hopes for another reduction as soon as possible. Reed also called for cuts later this year in corporate income and excise or sales taxes.

The Eisenhower administration has asked that the social security tax increase—the only immediate thorn in the rosy picture of tax reductions—be canceled.

Aid To Buying

Altogether, almost 60 million individual income taxpayers will benefit from the 10 per cent reduction. But in the lowest income tax brackets, the social security tax increase will amount to more—leaving a net loss in take-home pay for about 10 million workers.

Economists have been saying the income tax reductions should spur consumer buying and help ease threats of any business recession next year. And for corporations, death of the excess profits tax may pave the way for expansion—especially for newer and smaller

Marion Plant Purchased by Eastern Firm

R. A. (Dick) Lau, owner and general manager of the Marion Brass and Bronze Company since he established it here in 1917, today announced the purchase of his business by the Magnolia Metal Company of Elizabeth, N. J.

Magnolia Metal Company, established in 1886, is listed in Thomas' Register of Manufacturers as manufacturers of babbitt metals, die cast solid or cored machined bronze bar stock, bronze replacement bushings for rubber and plastic machinery.

Mr. Lau states that Arthur Miller, president of the Magnolia Metal Company, will be here Monday with Herbert S. Figgs to take over operation of the local industry.

The Marion Brass and Bronze Company will continue to operate in Marion as a division of the Magnolia Metal Company with Mr. Figgs as works manager.

Mr. Lau came here from Buffalo in 1917 following some 17 years in the brass and bronze foundry business in Canada and the United States. The Marion Brass and Bronze Company have built up a reputation everywhere brass is used during the 38 years of its operation. Mr. Lau says he will assist the new owners for a short time and then retire from active business.

Greet New Year

Big Cities of World Plan Mammoth Celebrations

By The Associated Press

The gayest and biggest New Year's Eve celebrations since the end of World War II were in prospect in many of the great cities of the world tonight—sparked by the hope that perhaps peace will have a better chance in 1954.

In Moscow, the sales of champagne tripled in comparison to last year's holiday period. And from New York to San Francisco, theaters and night clubs expected the greatest crowds of the postwar years.

Along with the hoop-la, many planned to gather in churches for watch night services bidding farewell to the old year and praying for the peace, health and prosperity that 1953 did not assure.

And as America planned to go forth for its usual jolliment, the National Safety Council broadcast its usual grim reminder. It predicted a possible 360 highway fatalities for the nation's three-day holiday weekend.

President Eisenhower will attend a small celebration at the clubhouse of the Augusta, Ga., National Golf Club, adjacent to the holiday White House. But he'll go to work early on New Year's Day on his State of the Union message to Congress.

Only 900 miles from the North Pole—at Thule, Greenland — the men at Uncle Sam's most isolated base will be entertained by Arthur Godfrey and 11 of his entourage. Air Force Secretary Harold E. Talbott, Gen. Curtis E. Lemay, commander of the Strategic Air Command, and their wives flew there last night with the Godfrey group.

Despite estimates that it would cost most of a $100 bill at New York's swankier night spots to see the old year out, most managers expected to hang out the standing-room-only sign early. The biggest city's night clubs, taverns and hotels took out 3,402 special "all night" permits to let guests tipple past the regulation 4 a.m. deadline. It was the greatest number ever issued.

Northern Midwest Still in Grip of Cold

By The Associated Press

The northern Midwest shivered again today in sub-zero cold and some blowing snow.

The rest of the north central region also was on the chilly side and light snow fell along the northern tier of states from Minnesota to New England.

It looked like a cold New Year's Eve in most of the Midwest with another batch of cold air headed into the region on New Year's Day.

Coldest reading early today was 21 degrees below zero in International Falls, Minn., on the Canadian border.

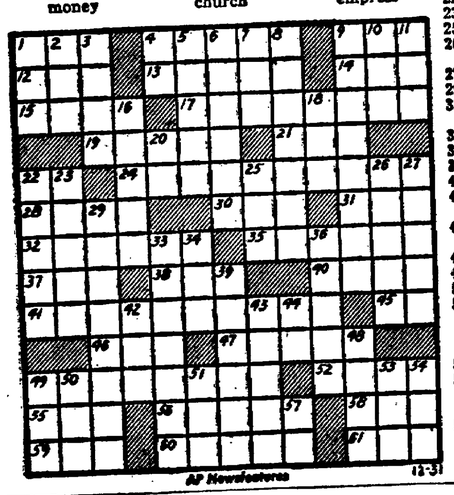
Solution of Yesterday's Puzzle



Boomerang Selling Fast in Australia

SYDNEY, Australia (UP) — Stoneage native craftsmanship has given way to modern machinery in production of the boomerang and other native weapons at La Petrouse Aboriginal Settlement.

Mass production methods became necessary to cope with the huge volume of orders for aboriginal souvenirs for tourists during the tour by Queen Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh.

But the authentic touch is still with the good because the aborigines use stone-age methods to burn designs on the bommerangs, nulla-nulla and shields.

In his natural state, the Australian aborigine does not till the fields for crops, wears no clothes at all and obtains his food from hunting and wild vegetable growth.

The aborigines at La Perouse do not live in this "back to nature" state but reside in the government-backed settlement in a peaceful communal life.

Eight of the 176 men at the settlement are now working full time making souvenirs. The experts are polishing and whittling up to 18 hours a day to meet orders for boomerangs.

The boomerangs are sold to city stores and overseas agents for between eight shillings (90 cents) and $7. several of the aborigines often earn as much as $56 a week.

Two electric fretwork saws and polishing machines have tripled output for the souvenir-makers. Mulga, mango, and sallywattle wood is used.

One aboriginal, Bob Sims, 43, is making nine special boomerangs for the 1956 Olympic games in Melbourne. He has been officially asked to give an exhibition in boomerang throwing at the games, and intends to use the nine special weapons.

A usual boomerang is a curved, angular clug that can be thrown in such a way that it curves around and returns to the thrower, but the war boomerang, used in tribal wars or for hunting birds, does not return. It is only a throwing club.

A nulla-nulla is a hardwood club with pointed head. It is approximately a yard long and has a comparatively thin handle. It is both a war and hunting weapon.

The first International Postal Congress was held in Switzerland in 1874.

TB No Longer 'Major' Baltimore Death Cause

BALTIMORE (AP) — Tuberculosis has been removed from the list of "major killers" for the first time in the medical history of Baltimore after a 31 per cent drop in the death rate of the disease.

Dr. Huntington Williams, health commissioner, said the decline, "truly phenomenal," was due primarily to a home-care program and the social and medical advances of the past 10 years.

Although the number of cases of tuberculosis in Baltimore for 1953 —1,393—was almost as high as the 1,493 listed in 1952, the number of deaths fell from 416 last year to 280 in 1953.

New Term Agenda Bulging

Congress To Be Busy During January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Washington takes down the shutters next week.

Business falls off here between Congress' departure and its return in January. So does news. It can be dull here then.

But this year had some lively moments.

Most memorable: the events touched off by Atty. Gen. Brownell's charge of Truman administration softness toward Communists.

In replying, former President Truman concentrated on Brownell but mentioned Sen. McCarthy.

McCarthy then denounced Truman, criticized the Eisenhower administration, and got himself rebuked by Secretary of State Dulles and, indirectly, by President Eisenhower.

Then comparative quiet enveloped the city again although work went on in the Supreme Court and the executive departments.

When the lawmakers open up shop Wednesday all the wheels start turning again, some shrilly, some angrily, some quietly and efficiently.

The new year's work begins next Monday night, Jan. 4, when Eisenhower reports to the naion on television and radio on his first year in office.

On Thursday, Jan. 7, the day after Congress returns, Eisenhower delivers to it his State of the Union message, outlining his program.

Quickly after that he'll hand Congress his economic report, just a time when many private economists say the country faces a year of fairly mild depresion, and his budget of expenses.

In spite of this load of activity, crowded into January's early days the month will be mostly one of talking while congressional committees begin hearings on legislation.

As usual, appropriations subcommittes will dig into the administration's requests for money and won't finish up their work in this field until midsummer.

And, as usual, members of Congress will be operating on two planes. In the mornings they'll take part in committee hearings on all kinds of legislation; most afternoons they'll be on the floor of House and Senate making speeches.

They'll also be making statements at public meetings and to reporters.

For many of them the statements will be doing double duty: trying to get their opinions out in public and impressing the folks back home.

In fact the floor of both houses in 1954 will resemble big hay fields with most members trying to make as much of it as they can since next November is election time for most of them.

As always it will be in the usually dreary but long days of committee hearings where Congress does its solid work, putting legislation together for debate and vote.

City Examiner Finds Trucker Left 3 Widows

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—His "routine investigation" following the death of a 64-year-old Philadelphia truck driver has had "developments," reports Albert Rosenblatt.

The developments are "three marriages and not a single divorce."

The truck driver, Samuel Johnson, died last wek.

Rosenblatt, special deputy investigator for the city health examiner, identified widow No. 1 as Mrs. Mary Johnson of Greenville, S. C., and widow No. 3 as Mrs. Inez Johnso nof Philadelphia.

The first woman married Johnson in 1913 and the Philadelphia woman became Mrs. Johnson in 1943.

And, according to Mrs. Mary Gary, a sister of the deceased, sometime between the two marriages came Mrs. Orrie Dodson Johnson. Her whereabouts, Rosenblatt said, are unknown.

Police Chief Sensitive To Moonshine Aroma

IDABEL, Okla. (AP)—The sensitive nose of Police Chief Sam Sellers twitched to the odor of raw moonshine.

Chief Sellers and Patrolman H. A. Lockwood, parked in their cruiser on an Idabel street yesterday, gave chase when a pickup went by, trailing the tell - tale smell familiar in the southeastern Oklahoma mountain area.

They stopped the truck and found a 50-gallon still plus a large quantity of corn whisky mash hidden in back. Two men were arrested.

Texan Settles Parking Fine Three Years Later

GREELEY, Colo. (AP) — A Corpus Christi, Tex., resident sent $1 yesterday to Greeley police.

He thanked the police for their patience, and said he was sorry for the delay in paying an overtime parking fine. "Most of my creditors," he wrote, "raise cain for their money inside of 60 days."

A check of the records showed his ticket was issued Nov. 7, 1948.

Probable in 1954

Following up President Eisenhower's proposal for an exchange of information about non-explosive uses of atomic energy, the White House staff is studying a revision of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946.

This law was passed when the United States had a monopoly of atomic weapons and the illusion of a monopoly of atomic knowledge. It was amended in 1951 to make allowance for the discovery it had neither kind of monopoly. It is an expression in legislative policy of what one chairman of the Atomic Energy Commission has described as "unwise extremes of ignorance."

The law's purpose is to keep the United States from sharing information.

It is probable in 1954, as a result of the Eisenhower proposal, that Americans may learn for the first time something which their own atomic scientists have known from the beginning—that the United States has much to gain by sharing information about nuclear fission.

The original development of the A-bomb was made possible by work carried on both here and abroad. The subsequent development of fission has been international, too. Even the supposedly backward Russians have been able to qualify as charter members of the atomic era.

It is no surprise that the British have made progress; it was largely due to their early work in the field that the United States was able to become the first possessor of an atomic bomb. But in the absence of pooled information, the United States has no way of knowing how much progress the British have made since 1946.

The revision of the Atomic Energy Act of 1946, as amended in 1951, is not going to be an unselfish act for the purpose of letting the U.S. government share its secrets.

There is a corresponding desire to learn what other governments have been doing.

Hon. Santa

The Tokyo correspondent for The Wall Street Journal has done an outstanding job of reporting Japan's first Christmas rush this year.

Business was never better. Japanese Santa Clauses were to be found in the big department stores, with Donner, Blitzen et al. Christmas trees were everywhere.

"Kurisumasu paatis" — Christmas parties—were numerous and jolly. "Jingle Bells" blared from every loudspeaker. The Christmas idea tied in so neatly with Japan's own year - end holiday spirit that Hon. Santa is destined to become a fixed feature of December merchandising in Japan.

The Japanese are unworried over the fact, this thing they call Kurisamasu is connected with a religion which only about one per cent of them know anything about.

Holiday Hazard

As far as automobile traffic is concerned, the holiday hazard rises in direct ratio to the quality of the weather. The better the weather the greater the number of fatalities.

The Christmas weekend brought good weather throughout the United States. It was quickly evident to the experts that this would step up the accident rate for the obvious reason that more autoists would be driving more miles at higher speeds than if the weather had been bad.

The experts knew what they were talking about. A new record was reached.

It is no comfort to the survivors of those who die or to those who are maimed, but traffic experts can foretell how many of us are going to be killed and hurt almost from day to day.

The traffic hazard is as easy to define as the hazard from coronary disease; it has been taken in charge by the actuarians.

As long as they can depend on certain fixed factors, they can foretell the total of traffic deaths, The principal factor is excessive speed, which might be defined as any speed greater than the driver's ability to use it safely.

New Military Look

The surviving veterans of America's wars are growing wistful as they hear once more about a new military look. They know that the more it changes the more it is the same.

Each time the new look is going to lift the foot soldier out of the mud and misery of his cheerless lot in all previous wars. This is a reform that has been going on since tacticians substituted a stone hatchet for the warrior's fist.

After the hatchet came the club, the sword, the spear, the bow and arrow, the first crude firearms, the cannon, the bomb, the airplane to carry the bomb and finally the bomb that propels itself to its designated target.

Each time the foot soldier was going to be lifted out of mud and misery. But each time it turned out to be the foot soldier who was the prime target of the new weapon — the ultimate obstacle to the enemy's campaign.

The new look this time has wings and electronics. It has a theory that regiments and divisions of foot-weary dogfaces slogging through the mud and slush will be seen no more in warfare. But surviving veterans know better. They've heard it all before, but somehow they hear it only between, never during, wars.

Man With a Mission

By Roy A. Roberts

McCarthy Overzealous but He's No Hypocrite

(Mr. Roberts, president of the Kansas City Star, is an acute observer of the national political scene.)

The most amazing phenomenon in Washington today is Joe McCarthy and the controversy that rages around him.

There has been nothing like it in decades of American political history, except possibly the meteroic but short career in the nation's capital of Huey Long.

No shrinking violet, McCarthy doesn't attempt to run from the glaring conspicuity. Probably inwardly he may enjoy it a bit. Whether he does or not, he is not going to subside, for he definitely feels he is a man with a mission, that Joe McCarthy has a job to perform for his nation. He thrives on opposition.

If ever a man has been made by his foes, it is McCarthy. Let McCarthy open his mouth, and it is a screaming headline.

Abroad, next to the President himself, McCarthy probably comes in for as much attention, even though it be without understanding of the real situation.

McCARTHY MAY be ambitious, but the White House, which his foes claim is his goal, certainly is not in his sights. He is too much a realist in politics for that. He knows that anybody around whom have surged such bitter passions would never be picked by a national convention.

He is a Catholic, and since the Al Smith campaign in 1928, neither party has taken a chance on bringing a religious issue into a national campaign, even though there is far more religious tolerance today.

To McCarthy, Soviet Russia is a godless system. He isn't a hypocrite. He believes implicitly, with all his soul, in the crusade he is making to drive the Reds out of our government. He feels so keenly on the subject that he is almost color blind. He often gets pale pinks mixed up with the deeper hue.

McCarthy has learned that extreme statements go a lot further in getting attention than considered ones. But there is generally some purpose behind even his wildest statements.

UNQUESTIONABLY, the Democrats would just as soon see the Communists - in - government issue dropped. The record as it is being unfolded, is amazing. It was a matter of complacency, not treason or disloyalty. The famous "red herring" remark typifies the thinking. But the reply was: Denounce the accusers.

McCarthy wasn't even a pioneer at the job. Dick Nixon, now vice president, was responsible for uncovering the Alger Hiss case. McCarthy wasn't even in the show then. He was hunting for an issue that would help re - elect him in Wisconsin. He decided the Red issue offered possibilities and that the State Department harbored a nest of Reds.

So he started blasting, overstating his case, unquestionably, on what he then had. That started the torrent of abuse of McCarthy. There has seldom been anything like it. The "liberals" sought to destroy him. Instead, they made him. McCarthy began swinging back and he will continue to do so. He enjoys his role.

POLITICALLY, McCarthy, or "McCarthyism," as the Democrats call it, presents quite a problem. Around New York and Washington and other spots, his name may be poison. But if congressmen and other politicos are to be believed, certainly he isn't anathema in the Middle West, especially.

The local Democratic candidates don't want him on their trail, and the Republicans, whether they approve the McCarthy tactics or not say openly his support is an asset.

Around McCarthy there is a group of senators that generally stick with him and think with him. If they ever broke with the administration, there wouldn't even be a deadlock of the parties as exists today. Some shrewd Democratic politicians have been trying to drive a complete wedge or split between the McCarthy group and the White House.

Curiously, despite all the stories to the contrary, McCarthy doesn't want to break with Ike. He wants to stay inside the Republican party. On most other issues, McCarthy goes along with the administration. He thinks the administration crowd ought to leave him alone and let McCarthy, as he always refers to himself in third person, conduct his own campaign against the Reds. But if they swing on him, he is going to swing back.

WHEN BOTH the President and Secretary Dulles attempted to slap McCarthy down for invading the field of foreign policy, it took a good deal of persuasion, so Washington gets it, to keep McCarthy moderate.

As far as Ike himself is concerned, there is no love lost between him and Sen. McCarthy. That is putting it very mildly. They are about as unlike as the poles.

It's a pity a bipartisan commission of say three outstanding Democrats and three outstanding Republicans, without bias on the issue of Communists in government, could not be set up to go over the great mass of material the FBI is gathering. That would keep both the probe, itself, and the FBI out of political implications. But the loyalty - board setup didn't work well. And Congress certainly isn't going to surrender the power of investigating this Communist topic. It's entirely too hot.

Meantime, McCarthy goes his way. They say in Washington he has advocates spotted in every department who feed him information and gossip.

The next big move by McCarthy, as Washington gets it, will be at the State Department again. When Acheson headed it, that fact was McCarthy's chief fuel and forage.

He has had clashes already with Secretary Dulles. But he is really gunning, they say, for Gen. Bedell Smith, undersecretary, on the score that he has kept too many of the Acheson - Truman-Roosevelt diplomats in key spots.

365 Days To Go

By TRUMAN TWILL

It has been 365 days since the last round of happy new years. Some familiar faces are missing. Some new ones have been added

A lot of water has gone over the dam, even with a drought to curtail the supply. Not everybody who was wished a happy new year at the tag end of 1952 had one. But almost everybody did, especially the ones with the secret formula.

Like everybody else who has given two thoughts to the matter, I keep watching for signs of the formula's magic effect. The signs are numerous and easy to spot, once you start to look for them.

The commonest sign is an appearance of complete happiness—the kind of an expression that bespeaks harmonious understanding with all the circumstances of environment.

It is a serene look that some people possess and wear like a crown of jewels. You see it on the faces of brides, of parents whose children have earned distinction, of grandfathers and grandmothers whose families have gathered to honor them in their old age.

You see it on the faces of people who have accomplished things that may have been of no general importance but were deeply important to the individuals

You see it on the faces of men and women who have dedicated their lives to something in which they believe with all their hearts and souls and who have no regrets.

You see it on the faces of farmers on a spring day when the furrow turns just right and the sun is warm on the backs of their necks.

You see it on the faces of small children.

You see it on the faces of profound scholars who have made their peace with knowledge and on the faces of the ignorant who have been lucky enough to remain blissful.

And every place it's seen, the serene look is the result of the formula which is possessed by some people and barred from the possession of others.

It is the formula for having happy new years without fail.

These people know something the rest of us either can't discover or can't take advantage of when we do discover it. They know how to find happiness within themselves. They are not at the mercy of externalities.

They can be aware of the unhappiness in the world about them without being thrown into despondency by it. They can even be happy in adversity because they are everlastingly determined to make the best of things.

It has been my good fortune to know more of them this last year than I ever knew before. The power of their example is like a level-headed leader in a panic; everybody looks to them for peace of mind which is becoming the rarest commodity in this overstocked land of plenty.

When I wish them a happy new year, the wish is envious. I wish everybody could get the hang of their secret formula. I wish everybody could learn the knack of living today the way most of us intend to live tomorrow.

Marion County History Brevities

By EDNA S. DUTTON

At a session of the board of county commissioners on July 4, 1824, a decision was made to erect, through subscription, "a house in the town of Marion for use of a court, school and meeting house." The board appointed Eber Baker, Dr. George Miller and Adam Uncapher to superintend its construction. For their services the committee was allowed $30. The building "stood back some distance from Prospect St." and was of brick manufactured at the brickyard located near N. State St. For a number of years it was the only available building for court, school and church services.

Isn't Nature Grand?

Critics of Press Follow Old Pattern

By Raymond Moley

It is becoming quite evident that in one respect at least the Eisenhower administration is following precedent. It is working up a peeve against the press.

The signs of this are reported by newspapermen who are in daily contact with the departments in Washington. It was especially noticeable in the words and attitude of Harold Stassen when he faced the inexorable "Meet the Press" panel on December 27.

More than once he asserted that the press had misinterpreted his own and Secretary Dulles' position on foreign relations.

In particular he asserted that the press has given the impression that Mr. Dulles' speech before the North Atlantic Council was a threat to the French Government to get in line with the European Defense Community or go without help from us.

SO FAR AS I have seen accounts of that speech in a number of newspapers, it was accurately reported.

The salient sentences were: "If, however, the European Defense Community should not become effective; if France and Germany remain apart, so that they would again be potential enemies, then indeed there would be grave doubt whether Continental Europe could be made a place of safety. That would compel an agonizing reappraisal of basic United States policy."

If there was any other way to report such diplomatic language, Mr. Stassen did not state it. He contented himself with quarreling with a generality, "the press," without specifying how the misrepresentation had been made.

IT IS TRUE that Stassen has always been a very serious man His smiles seem to be born in painful labor; his humor is sterile. But in the particular appearance to which I refer he seemed unusually grim and touchy.

Clearly, he was persuing the appearance not to answer questions but to get a message over to the country. And a sizable part of that message was that "the press" was not giving him or the secretary of state or the president a square deal.

There are bound to be occasional flareups among members of the Washington corps of correspondents, such as the complaint about the breaking of the news of the Warren appointment by the attorney-general to a favored few reporters. But there is no occasion for generalized charges of press misrepresentation.

Indeed, the President has had what seems to me a very good press, and he seems to appreciate it. For he has made no charges of misrepresentation, and his press conferences have been generally amiable.

HIS DECISION to allow recordings to be broadcast and to permit direct quotation was admirable. After all, the President is entitled to speak for himself to the country.

However, this situation presents nothing new. F.D.R.'s bitterness toward most publishers is well remembered. He mixed his denunciations of publishers with a friendly attitude toward their correspondents.

His attitude was "You are fine boys. It's too bad you have to work for such people." The result was an exceedingly good press which, after all, was a tribute to the publishers' sense of fairness.

Truman was at war with the press generally, claiming on every possible occasion that it was part of the infamous "interests." He claimed also that the press always lost elections.

But it requires little thought to realize that in the long period of one-party government it was the press that supplied the real opposition. And that opposition now and always will be the best defense against bad government.

Medical Problem Solved

An industrial textile has solved one of the most difficult problems in the artificial heart-lung machine, experimenters report. These miraculous machines this year, for the first time, permitted an operation on a bloodless but still beating human heart.

U.S. government medical researchers have reported that with a heart-lung machine of proper design "it is not difficult to supply oxygen to the blood, rid it of excess carbon dioxide, and pump a sufficient volume to maintain life, but it is very difficult to obtain a sufficient supply of blood from the body for the machine."

A new specially developed seamless nylon filter tube taps the blood with greater efficiency. Not only does this nylon blood filter tube provide an ample supply of blood for the machine — it also uncomplicates the operating area by allowing blood to be drawn from the limps after a small local incision.

Medical investigators working at the Veterans Administration Hospital in Nashville, Tenn, with the cooperation of Vanderbilt University, disclosed that before the new product was used it was necessary to open the big veins near the heart in order to get enough blood, thus crowding the operation area. Suction in smaller veins previously collapsed the veins. Other filters sucked the thin vein walls which clogged the flow.

To overcome these blood-supply difficulties, the VA researchers found that "Schlegel's nylon blood filter tubing is ideally suited to withdraw large amounts of blood when slipped inside the veins of the body." It provides thousands of openings per inch that are not just perforations on the surface of a pipe or hose. Also, the filter could not be glass, because white corpuscles stick to glass, it was found.

The reference to Schlegel means the Schlegel Manufacturing Company, the industrial textile firm, which supplies its narrow-loom products to nine different major industries and designed the near-quarter-inch tube for the VA.

More than half of all deaths are a result of heart and blood vessel diseases, latest American Heart Association figures show.

Antimetabolites Used

Cell Division Prevention May Mean Cure of Cancer

By THOMAS R. HENRY
Science Editor, North American Newspaper Alliance

BOSTON, (NANA) — A straight road toward conquest of the group of diseases known as "cancer" now seems clear after generations of following false leads.

This was stressed at a meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science here today devoted to the role of so-called antimetabolites in preventing cell division.

Hardly a start has been made along this road, said Dr. Cornelius P. Rhoads of the Memorial Center for Cancer Research, New York, but "the steps which have led to control of other important diseases in the past now have been made in principle for the neoplastic process and we have a concept of the disorder which permits us to seek its control by established procedures."

Antimetabolite research now is being conducted in many institutions throughout the country. It depends on substiution of various closely allied substances for naturally occurring materials essential for the formaion of nucleic acids, the major constituents of the living cell. These subsitute compete with the natural materials, with the result that the acids are not formed.

Consequently the cell does not reproduce itself by division. All kinds of cancer, it is recognized, are formed by very rapidly dividing cells which otherwise are not basically different from normal cells. Since they are reproducing so rapidly they need more of the nucleic acid precursors.

Consequently their growth is checked to a greater extent than that of normal cells, and the progress of the cancer is halted. Thus, Dr. Rhoads said, the long-sought goal of selective destruction of malignant growths comes in sight. Normal cells, of course, will be injured also but not to the same extent.

Antimetabolites already demonstrated have a weak but definite activity, according to Dr. Rhoads The need now is for a great variey of similar substances that can be tested against all sorts of malignant growth. All the major drug houses and many universities now are hard at work to supply these, he said.

The antimetabolite road may be very long, it was stressed, and no "miracle" developments are to be expected—either in this line or any other. The status of the progress to date, as outlined by Dr. Rhoads.

A few animal cancers can be completely destroyed by the substitutions, and marked improvement can be brought about in some patients with cancers of the blood-forming organs, of the breast and of the prostate gland.

Some improvement but of brief duration, can be achieved in cancers of the ovary and of the lung.

"It will be surprising indeed if better effects are not achieved," Dr. Rhoads said.

The process, it was stressed by other speakers at this symposium, may be attended by real dangers, especially if the antimetabolites are given to expectant mothers since they interfere with the cell division of the unborn young as well as with that of the neoplasm.

Korea Warned Against Inking China Alliance

U.S. Commander Tells Rhee This Country Opposes Planned Pact

TOKYO (NANA) — President Syngman Rhee and Marshal Chiang Kai-shek have been warned that the United States State Department is firmly opposed to any military alliance between South Korea and Formosa. This veto, according to reliable sources, was bluntly conveyed to Dr. Rhee by General John Hull, the United States commander in the Far East, on the eve of the recent secret talks between the two Asian anti-Communist leaders in Taipeh.

The State Department with the concurrence of the United States joint chiefs of staff, also firmly rejected proposals by Chiang and Rhee that the Chinese Nationalist troops be allowed to use South Korean bases for raids on the Chinese mainland and that the United States assume responsibility for the defense of the vulnerable Nationalist-held islands between Formosa and the China coast.

President Rhee has been further rebuffed by the shelving of his demands for four wings of modern jet fighters and one wing of bombers. Similarly Chiang has been disappointed in his request for the use of 10 United States destroyers. He has received only two.

Instead of the proposed military alliance with Chiang, Rhee has not called for an "extensive Pacific defense community" to be formulated at a conference between South Korea, Formosa, the Philippines and Siam. He claims that Chiang has agreed with him on the urgent need for this Far Eastern common front, but insists that Japan will be ineligible "until the Japanese justly recognize Korea and the Koreans trust the Japanese."

Prepare Creole Dish at Buffet Supper

Cook Shrimp Jambalaya Dry, Is Good Served With Green Salad

By CECILY BROWNSTONE
Associated Press Food Editor

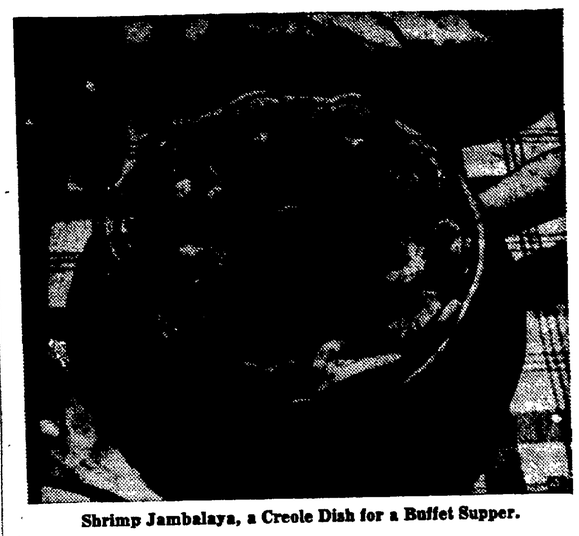
Here comes New Orleans! Yes, we've been cooking that wonderful Creole dish—Shrimp Jambalaya. We've been streamlining it a bit, too, so you can make it successfully for your next buffet supper.

One accompaniment to this Jambalaya we always like — a green salad. Use romaine or water cress and cucumbers, if they are available, for the salad; otherwise make do with what you can get. Just be sure your greens are chilled and crisp, and that the salad has plenty of French dressing on it. This Jambalaya is not a sauc-y dish—it cooks dry—and you need a salad doused in dressing to go with it.

This recipe will make hearty servings for eight. But if you should not have that many, don't worry. Put the leftovers in a covered casserole in the refrigerator. Next day, stir in a little curry powder, dot with butter or margarine, and heat uncovered in a very hot oven. When we tried this, our taste-testers gave us compliments a-plenty!

SHRIMP JAMBALAYA

Ingredients: 2 pounds shrimp, 2 tablespoons salad oil, 1½ cups diced smoked lean raw ham (sliced thin), ¼ cup butter or margarine, 1 green pepper (chopped), 2 medium-sized onions (chopped), 1 clove garlic (minced), 1 bay leaf (crumbled), 2 cups uncooked converted-type rice, 1 cup strained court bouillon (to start with), salt and pepper and cayenne (to taste), onion rings.



Shrimp Jambalaya, a Creole Dish for a Buffet Supper.

Method: Cook shrimp in court bouillon. Shell and devein. Heat oil in 12-inch skillet. Add ham and brown. Remove ham from skillet; set aside. Add butter to remaining oil in pan. Add green pepper, onion, garlic and bay leaf; cook until onion is partly tender and lightly browned. Add rice; cook and stir constantly until browned. Stir in 1 cup court bouiullon, tomatoes and reserved ham. Cover skillet and simmer, stirring with fork occasionally, about 30 minutes or until rice is cooked. Add salt, pepper and cayenne. If mixture becomes too dry before rice is cooked, add more court bouillon—you may need ½ cup extra. When rice is cooked, stir in shrimp; if shrimp are large, cut in two lengthwise. Turn into casserole; garnish with onion rings. Place in hot (425 F) oven just long enough to heat shrimp—5 to 10 minutes. Makes 8 servings.

COURT BOUILLON FOR SHRIMP

Ingredients: 1½ quarts water, ½ stalk celery, 1 carrot (sliced) 1 small white onion (sliced), juice of ½ lemon, 1 teaspoon salt, a few peppercorns.

Method: Put water in saucepan. Add all ingredients and bring to boil. Add shrimp. Let water come to boil; simmer 2 to 5 minutes. Drain shrimp, reserving court bouillon.

German Manpower Being Used by U.S.

BONN, (NANA) — The United States, already publicly impatient over the long delay in German rearmament, is showing signs of becoming even more impatient in the announcement of plans to launch a far-reaching experiment in direct use of German manpower by the American Air Force stationed in Germany.

The experiment is being conducted at Ramstein Air Base in the Rhineland-Palatinate and calls for 1,000 Germans—most of them Luft-Waffe veterans—to take over jobs from U. S. airmen. The Germans will be employed in communications, aircraft maintenance, supply and other so-called "combat support" posts at first. By doing these jobs they will relieve U. S. airmen for combat jobs in tactical units.

Apart from bringing German manpower directly into western defense via the back door, America also looks upon the use of Germans as a means of saving money. One airman billeted in Europe costs more than $5,600 a year. One German employed costs less than $1,400.

Two Morrow Accidents Investigated by Patrol

Within one hour yesterday, two accidents occurred on Route 61 about seven miles north of Mt. Gilead in Morrow County, the Marion post of the state highway patrol reported today.

The first occurred at 2:40 p.m., badly damaging the rear of a car driven by William A. Merwine, 21, of Galion and the front end of a car driven by Carl Leroy Bendle, 49, of Shelby.

Merwine was stalled on the highway, facing north, when he was struck by Bendle who was also northbound, the patrol said. There were no injuries.

Merwine was cited to appear before Justice of the Peace R. R. Bennington of Mt. Gilead Saturday to answer a charge of parking on a highway.

The second accident at 3:30 p.m. was a one-vehicle affair involving a car driven by Reed B. Porter, 25, of Mt. Gilead. The patrol reported he was traveling north and apparently traveling too fast for road conditions when he went off the road on the right side, turning over in a ditch there.

The top and left side of his car were badly damaged. He was uninjured.

Credit Kind

Philanthropist Boyle Presents Prizes

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP)—There are two kinds of philanthropists—those who give away money and those who give credit.

We have decided to become a philanthropist this year, and—for personal reasons—have decided to start off by giving away credit, which is all anybody ever gave us.

The simplest way to give credit where credit is due is to start a foundation and present a series of annual achievement awards. But this is a crowded field. There are already so many foundations giving awards for merit of one kind or another that the average fellow is bound to win one himself sooner or later, if he merely abstains from striking his wife in public.

So, instead of recognizing any special performance in any particular field, our philanthropic foundation is dedicated to the recognition of anybody we can see on a clear day. If the other foundations have overlooked you, just write us and tell us what you want an award for doing or not doing and we guarantee to recognize you, if your handwriting is legible.

Here are our first awards for 1953:

The year's best-dressed turkey—the one we had for Christmas.

The most outstanding salesman—President Eisenhower, who convinced Charles E. Wilson he should sell 2½ million dollars in auto stock to take a government post.

The event likely to have the most impact on history—death of Joseph Stalin.

The event likely to have the least impact on history—our birthday.

The most frustrated plumber—Martin Durkin, who made the right connection, then lost his pipeline.

The most unusual overthrow—Joe Walcott, who lost a throne by being knocked on his seat of empire.

The decision least likely to hurt Florida's tourist industry—lifting of the Soviet ban against foreign travelers.

Boy writer showing most literof the Soviet ban against foreign Winnie Churchill.

Retired cop with least chance to get job guarding pearly gates—Lavrenty P. Beria, of Russia.

The year's busiest ghost—Harry Dexter White.

The ghost everyone would like to see twice as often—the one that walks on paydays.

The man who did most to prove that Horatio Alger's "strive and succeed" formula doesn't always work out—Charlie Dressen of the Brooklyn Dodgers.

The prisoner who got the least applause for good conduct—Alger Hiss.

The prisoners most likely to get homesick in 1954—the American POW's in Korea who wouldn't come back.

The convalescent with the best chance of regaining his old strength—the American dollar.

The year's leading wrong-guesser—the weather man.

The most persistent life of the party—Harry S. Truman.

The most enjoyable tumble of the season—the drop in the cost of living.

The guy who got the mostest for the leastest—the Red pilot, tired of communism, who landed his MIG plane behind Allied lines and was astounded to learn he had earned $10,000.

The fellow who took the most abuse without talking back once—the Piltdown man, who proved you can get by for years with the jawbone of an ape, if you just keep it shut.

Cause Third of Fatalities

Speed Demons Scourge of Highways

By ROBERT GOLDESTEIN

CHICAGO (AP) — Beware of the speed demon when you celebrate the coming of the new year.

A survey by The Associated Press today indicated this type of motorist was responsible for roughly one third of the near-record 523 highway deaths that occured on the nation's highways during this year's three-day Christmas weekend.

And not far behind was the highway daredevil. This was the driver who disobeyed regulations—crossing the center line, passing on hills and curves, and crowding the tail of the car ahead. This type caused another fifth of the deaths the survey indicated.

In order of frequency, other major causes of traffic deaths during the Christmas weekend were: pedestrian carelessness, poor weather or road conditions, intoxication and disregarding traffic signals.

The speeder is a year around problem. Records of the National Safety Council show excessive speed was the greatest single cause of fatal traffic accidents during the year.

The AP survey of police records of Christmas accidents in each of the nation's geographical regions showed the high price paid for excessive speed was not limited to any single area.

Speeding was blamed officially for 9 of North Carolina's 22 traffic deaths, 4 of New Jersey's 23, 18 of California's 48, and 9 of Illinois' 27.

Excessive speed thus was the cause of 40 of the combined total of 120 traffic deaths in the four representative states.

Commenting on the findings in the AP survey, Ned H. Dearborn, president of the National Safety Council, which has forecast a possible 36 highway fatalities for the New Year's weekend, said:

"The old saying that the faster you go the harder you hit should be pasted on the dashboard of every automobile. Every driver should remember that his risk of death goes up as his foot goes down on the accelerator.

"The Associated Press survey shows that holiday accidents are not any different from everyday accidents. Speed is the most important driver violation in fatal accidents every day of the year. So, for this New Year's weekend and for every day of the new year slow down and live."

The daredevil type who ignored regulations and warnings was blamed for 24 of the 120 Christmas traffic deaths in the four representative states.

Nineteen of the 120 deaths surveyed were attributed to pedestrian carelessness.

A sleet storm left most of Illinois' highways covered with a dangerous glaze, yet only 6 of that state's 27 deaths were attributed to dangerous road conditions. North Carolina blamed bad roads for 3 of its deaths but no such fatalities were reported in New Jersey or California.

Only 5 of the 120 fatalities were attributed directly to drunken driving, but officials pointed out that this cause often is left undetermined, especially if the intoxicated person is the victim or if the condition is not obvious.

Three of the deaths were attributed to the disregard of traffic signals and 20 others were blamed on miscellaneous causes.

LaRue Youth Approved By National Cattle Club

Paul W. Clay of LaRue has been accepted for Junior membership in the American Guernsey Cattle Club, the club announced today.

Junior membership in the cattle organization will be in effect until Clay reaches 21. He is eligible to register his cattle now under the special club rates. The club organized the junior member program in June. Since then, about 900 youths in the country have become members.

Declared Common Malady

Money Phobia Causes Sickness, Doctors Told

By FRANK CAREY
AP Science Reporter

BOSTON (AP)—Your stomach trouble, headache, back pain or even an irregular heart might actually be a form of "money sickness" caused by a virus familiarly known as the dollar.

This new wrinkle in diagnosis was reported today to the American Assn. for the Advancement of Science by a Boston doctor. He said various physical symptoms can sometimes stem from emotional upsets which, in turn, can be brought on by "money problems" possible among folks in all income brackets.

"Money-sickness," declared Dr. William Kaufman, is "the most common psychosomatic illness of our time"—and yet one that is often missed by doctors in seeking the underlying cause of a physical or emotional symptom.

Anyone from a miser to a gambler and from chronic bargain hunters to "salesmen and executives" who are cozy with their own money but lavishly spend on "their company's expense accounts," are candidates for the malady, Kaufman told the AAA's 120th meeting.

And, besides physical symptoms like headache, muscle and joint pains, or stomach trouble, it can take the form of serious emotional disturbances like hysterical paralysis, depression, anxiety states or reactions of "panic."

Kaufman, a practitioner of internal medicine, explained it somewhat like this:

The trouble doesn't necessarily come from how much money you have or don't have. It comes from the particular "meaning" you have come to place on money—and how you have learned to use it. And it could come from "feeling" you need morey mone when actually you don't.

Furthermore, it all starts back in your childhood—and it doesn't matter whether your folks were in the heavy chips or had to struggle for every buck.

"One of life's major disappointments which almost every child experiences," said Kaufman, "is that his parents cannot provide him with limitless money . . .

"The manner in which a child resolves his early conflicts about money will determine some of his basic personality and character traits, aspirations and behavior patterns."

Parental bribing of kids, substitution of money handouts for real love, or overcriticism of a child's every use of money, may establish habits which, if uncorrected, may set the stage for a "money-sickness" candidate in later life.

Meat Packers Protest City Inspection Fee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—All major meat packing plants in the Columbus area have volunteered to pay meat inspection fees to the city's health department, says City Health Commissioner O. M. Goodloe.

Many of the companies said they will pay under protest pending approval by the City Council of the health department's budget which is expected to include funds to cover inspection charges.

The Ohio Supreme Court ruled the department has no authority to collect such fees from the packers.

Lady Engineer Is Mathematical Ace

CHAMBLEE, Ga., (INS) — A lesser mystery of the Orient today is the mathematical wizardry of a doll-like Chinese girl who won a scholarship for a course in gas fuel technology.

She is 26-year-old Marian Hungyin Tsai of Formosa, a student at Southern Technical Institute in Chamblee.

The pretty lady engineer, who received her degree by passing a special examination given by the Chinese Ministry of Education, traveled 8,000 air miles to take the gas fuel course — only one of its kind in the world.

Understandable she is the only girl in the class. But her flair for figures would be enough to set her apart from other students.

At the National Yin-sze University, Miss Tsai averaged 99 in differential equations, 97 in calculus, 94 in physics.

After graduation she went to work for the Taiwan Pineapple Corp. as assistant engineer in the technical division. Her study in America is sponsored by directors of the Liquefied Petroleum Gas Association, which cut international red tape to obtain a student visa for the smart girl.

New Dawn

By George Sokolsky

This can be said for 1953: it was a year that ended without a shooting war, except in Indochina where the war has become hot again. In these troubled times, disturbances were abundant but not shooting. Korea remained a seat of disorder, but the prolonged truce talks continued throughout the year and led to nothing. The talk was plentiful; the results were trivial. The State Department has not yet learned that Soviet Russia uses even talk as a weapon of war.

SOKOLSKY

True, a slight outbreak occurred between the Jews and the Arabs, the Italians and the Yugoslavs. Kashmir remains a danger spot and the relations between India and Pakistan continue antagnistic. But in 1953, fewer people were killed in wars to most of which they were related without their direct consent.

-:-

THE UNITED STATES lost, in a measure its position of world leadership. The nations of the British Commonwealth, particularly Great Britain, Canada and India, asserted a greater degree of political independence, although Great Britain continued to accept financial and other economic aid from this country.

In France and Italy and nearly every other Western European country, neutralist movements of massive dimensions developed as a response to the challenge of prospective war.

Actually such movements were aimed more at the United States than at Soviet Russia as these countries were supposed to be allied to the United States and partly dependent upon its bounty.

In Latin-America, neutralism became a serious menace. President Eisenhower sent his brother, Milton, on a trip to Latin-American countries to study the situation first hand.

IT WOULD appear that in some of these countries, particularly the Argentine, Milton Eisenhower's ministry was of value to the United States.

The President also sent the vice president, Richard Nixon, on a trip to Asia. The results of Nixon's trip are not yet known.

In Latin-America, Communism reared its ugly head, a Marxist state coming into existence in Guatemala and in British Guiana. The British killed off the Marxist state in British Guiana with excellent ruthlessness, but Guatemala is as Marxist as Communist China. The same forces are moving into Honduras and Costa Rica.

The evidence is clear that the Roosevelt "Good Neighbor Policy" was a flop in these countries and that while the United States was fussing all over Europe, it neglected its front door.

THE SPREAD of Marxism is to be anticipated in other Latin American countries to which the Kremlin has devoted its energies for more than two decades.

The absence of a shooting war gave the military authorities in the United States the opportunity to review and revise our military plans and policies.

Atomic warfare has altered the strategy and logistics of war just as the use of gunpowder produced vast changes in its time.

The nature of war is determined by the character of the weapons employed and the means of producing and conveying those weapons.

Under Admiral Arthur W. Radford, our military policies are being revised to meet changing factors and conditions.

This will undoubtedly result in the reduction of military manpower, the increase in planes in the Air Force, and submarines in the Navy.

In a word, our military establishment is being made over from a sentimental to a practical operation. I use the word, sentimental, in the sense that the infantrymen, who have generally controlled the Army, over - emphasize footsoldiers despite new conditions.

SHOULD NO shooting war occur in 1954, it ought to be possible to balance the budget, which could help to stabilize the dollar and lower taxes.

It is even more important to stabilize the dollar than to lower taxes, because the advance of the value of the dollar can overcome a high tax rate. In 1953, the American dollar was worth about 50 cents.

At the beginning of the Eisenhower administration, George Humphrey, secretary of the Treasury, announced a sound fiscal program, which he has not been able to carry through to any degree in 1953. It is hoped that he may achieve much of it during 1954, if the country can avoid a shooting war.

If to that is added a reduction in foreign aid and the elimination of waste in the executive branch of government, the value of the dollar may be sufficiently increased to restore confidence in its future.

A Happy, Healthy, and Thrifty New Year to all!

Some Chuckles

By Victor Riesel

It isn't all bitters on this beat. There are grins too. And there's no better time than New Year's to round up the chuckles which were drowned out by the louder and grimmer daily headlines During this past year, for example:

RIESEL

It was a spiritless Christmas season for hundreds of American workers now building the U.S. airbase at Hhahran, Saudi Arabia. These men, so far from home, were without the vintage which cheers, because the Arabian king withdrew the special dispensation needed to drink beer and wines within airbase boundaries there.

Molsem law prohibits the use of any alcoholic beverages. Breach of this religious law brings six months imprisonment and 50 lashes—or deportation.

So the boys have been slipping out to the Bahrein Islands for a drink and a weekend. But this seems over now. Arabian authorities now smell the breath of returning construction men—and have arrested some although they had no bottles.

The charge was "transporting liquor into the country in their stomachs." For this three Americans were deported . . .

THE 3-D MOVIE camera helped the teamsters union as well as the box office. Because the sun-baked cow town of Moab, Utah, had terrific cliff shots for the new dimensional movies, Hollywood rushed there for cowboy pix shooting.

At first the ranchers rented their horses to the film companies for $2 a day. Then they learned that they could join the AFL Teamsters as wranglers.

They did. And they collected the union wage of $1.94 an hour. . .

In Cuba, the Culinary Workers Union found it had millions in its worker's retirement fund. It decided to build a 10 million dollar air-conditioned hotel to make a profit. Not trusting itself to employ and negotiate with labor in the tough and efficient fashion needed to make a buck, it hired the Hilton Hotel International Corp. to run the 550 - room hostelry . . . .

In Tokyo, the purveyors of a proletarian paradise were embarrassed when 55 members of the Communist party announced they weren't being paid enough "to continue our fight for Communism," and threatened to strike and shut down the party newspaper, "The Red Flag" . . .

WALTER REUTHER, who thought he knew all about CIO, went out to the woodworkers convention and returned a commodore. This was the rank given him by this CIO union which, he discovered, actually has a little navy of its own.

The union needs the ships to get its organizers out to the logging camps on isolated islands along the coasts of British Columbia and Vancouver Island . . .

For the first time in union history, a contract was signed guaranteeing workers a ten-minute "coffee break" each morning and late afternoon. This was in a pact between the Minneapolis AFL Machinists and the Baker-Lull Corp.

The company furnishes the coffee and cream. This formalized a trend throughout industry revealing that efficiency men believe that the "coffee break" makes for more efficient production workers.

In turn, this trend is creating a new industry, the coffee, milk and soft drink vending machine business which Dave Beck's teamsters soon will unionize. The machines are put in to prevent the time-consuming dispersal of men and office workers to nearby soda parlors and drug stores . . .

TO KEEP IT clean the company and its union agreed in writing not to insult each other. Emil Rieve's CIO Textile Workers and the Ensign Bickford Co. agreed to a contract clause which said: "The union agrees that it will not publish or circulate any false or misleading remarks about the company, its products, its officers or other personnel, and the company agrees that it will not publish or circulate any false or misleading remarks about the union, its officers or other members". . .

Some 800 Scottish mine workers threatened a coal strike, which might have spread into a serious national tie-up of all mines, if the pit owners did not force one union member to take a vacation—which he didn't want.

The recalcitrant union member, Willie Farrell, said he liked to work. That was apparent. He had been putting in seven days a week for the past 12 years. But union is union.

He finally took a vacation when the union insisted that all its members "enjoy" the benefit it fought so hard to secure. . .

MILLIONS OF Londoners held their breath while two English Mike Quills threatened to tie up all transportation in the British capital. The issue was portentous—who would unscrew last year's license plates off the trolleys and busses.

Both the transport workers and the vehicle builders union claimed jurisdiction. The screwy situation was settled when they finally shared the work. Nobody walked . . .

Changeable Words

By Laura Hobson

Thinking of this, the last day of 1953, I got musing about a couple of words that must be the most changeable ones in the English language: "The End."

HOBSON

They can be sad or gay: they can be spoken with relief or grief: they can spell finality or only a transition to what lies ahead.

When a sick child comes through a crisis and the doctor says, "Well, that's the end of any danger," your heart leaps at the most blessed words you've ever heard spoken.

When you pay the last installment on an old debt or long-drawn-out bill, you exclaim, "It's the end of it," and you feel like doing a jig.

THE END of the fighting in Korea, the end of your son's draft service, the end of rationing the end of prohibition, even the end of a dull commercial on a radio or TV show — all of them fill you with varying quantities of satisfaction or joy.

"But "The End" can also be two heavy bronze bells tolling tragedy and pain.

When an engagement is broken off or a mariage fails, you think, "It's over; it's the end," and you may know not only grief but the most bewildering of human questions — Why? Where did it go wrong?

When you're fired from a job and start cleaning out your desk or locker, you say, "That's that," and whether you're relieved or secretly scared of the future, you know that the end of any job is a milestone in your working life.

DEATH IS "The End" on the most profound level of all and when it comes to someone we love, only an unshakeable philosophy or religious faith helps us face the awful finality of it with courage.

There's finality, too, in graduation day for your son or daughter—yet the end of long years of schooling is always an occasion fo congratulations and hope and laughter.

Ask any novelist or biographer for congratulations and hope and years of driving hard work, to the last chapter, the last page, the last paragraph, the last sentence—just ask him what are the two most thrilling words in his typewriter and you'll hear him shout, "The End."

And so it goes with those two words — the most flexible, fickle, fluctuating pair of syllables in the unabridged dictionary.

DEC. 31 also says "The End."

Every year on this day, millions and millions of human beings on the globe, whether they know they're doing it or not, consciously or unconsciously feel in their bones some sort of farewell.

The lucky ones also feel some sort of hello, hi, a new start, a fresh beginning.

Lucky ones—not only the young, not only the well-fixed, nor the happy, nor the secure, but all those people with an inner reservoir of confidence and energy and inquisitiveness about what the months ahead will toss up at them.

To them, the last day of 1953, like the last day of any year, is not the end, but merely "period, paragraph," in the long continuing chapters of the story.

One flip of a page and the new chapter begins . . . accompanied by the ringing of bells and blowing of horns, by kisses at midnight and a few measures of Auld Lang Syne.

Tonight's new chapter is called, "1954." Good reading and a happy ending.

Faulty Wiring Sets Trailer Home Afire

Defective wiring was blamed for a fire which caused some $100 damage at the residence of Ancil Curtis on Fleetwood St. last night. It was one of two alarms answered by city firemen yesterday.

Mark St. and Central stations firemen answered the call to Curtis' house-trailer home located just outside the northeast city limits at 6:38 p.m. They said a couch caught fire and the flames spread to a davenport and chair.

At 4:59 p.m., Central station firemen answered a call to the Columbus Ignitition Co. at 146 S. Main St. An unidentified passerby saw smoke coming from between the bricks in the chimney and thought the building was on fire. Firemen said apparently soot in the chimney had burned out but that there was no fire and no damage to the building.

Ohio To Get Slice Of Additional U.S. Funds for Schools

WASHINGTON (AP) — The allocation of an additional $3,692,522 for school construction in areas affected by federal defense activities was announced today by S. M. Brownell, U.S. commissioner of education.

The money is to go to 14 school districts in eight states and Alaska. It supplements sums recently reserved for construction in 15 other overcrowded districts. The funds will be released after the areas meet certain other requirements.

From a total of 70 million dollars appropriated for this purpose for the year started last July 1, the amount thus far set aside is more than seven million.

Ohio educational agencies on the present list and the amounts reserved for them include Waverly Local School District, Pike County, $631,750 and $233,400; Clay Local School District, Portsmouth, Scioto County, $246,350, and Valley Local School District, Lucasville, Scioto County, $518,700.

Finances Low In Cincinnati

City Faces Deficit Of Nearly $7 Million

CINCINNATI (AP) — Cincinnati, Ohio's second largest city, will go into 1954 tomorrow with only enough money appropriated to operate for three months.

The City Council voted a three months emergency appropriation of $6,960,000 late yesterday after failing to figure out how to overcome a deficit for the year which might run as much as seven million dollars.

The deficit has threatened ever since voters refused, at the November election, to approve an increase of 4.81 mills in the property tax levy.

Control of the council changed in the election, too, so little could be done toward solving the financial dilemma until the charter party took over its 5-4 majority in the council. Minority members are Republicans.

Since then, neither the Charterites nor the Republicans have been able to agree on how Cincinnati can raise the money to balance its 1954 budget.

Marilyn Monroe Ranks Seventh in Box Office Appeal

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Marilyn Monroe, who has won citations from many Army and Navy units, today was awarded box office honors too.

She was named among the top 10 money-makers of the screen.

Hollywood's sexiest dish was chosen among the winners by the Motion Picture Herald's 22nd annual exhibitors' poll, the most accepted in the field.

Here are the top 10 in order:

Gary Cooper, Martin and Lewis, John Wayne, Alan Ladd, Bing Crosby, Marilyn Monroe, James Stewart, Bob Hope, Susan Hayward and Randolph Scott.

The poll points up the fact that Hollywood has been lax in developing new stars. Monroe is the only new name on the list, which is dominated by male stars of action films and musical comedy.

The next 15 money-making stars placed in this order: Doris Day, Esther Williams, Margery Main-Percy Kilbride, Gregory Peck, Ava Gardner, Clark Gable, Burt Lancaster, Jeff Chandler, Jane Wyman, Abbott and Costello, Stewart Granger, Jane Russell, Charlton Heston, Humphrey Bogart and Rita Hayworth.

'Operation Cocktail' Experiment Successful

SARANAC LAKE, N. Y. (AP) — For the fifth year police tonight will conduct "Operation Cocktail" —a taxi service for New Year's Eve revelers.

Chief William Wallace says no New Year's Eve accidents have been recorded since he placed the village police car and a driver at the service of holiday celebrants.

Parade Planned To Help Scouts In Burning of Christmas Trees

A parade forming at 7 p.m. Saturday at the corner of E. Church and High Streets will open Marion's holiday "burning of the greens" ceremony sponsored by the Boy Scouts.

Cubs, Scouts and Explorers, as well as the drum and bugle corps of Bird-McGinnis Post, will march in the parade to the site of the old Forest Lawn School where the burning of Christmas trees is to take place, beginning at 7:30 p.m., Scout officials said today.

An escort will be provided by the Marion Police Department.

Mayor Harold Robinson has designated Safety - Service Director Ralph Forrest to officiate at the ceremony where each troop, pack, and post will have one representative to take part in the selection of a "king." Selection will be made by lot, and this boy in turn will designate three other boys from his own unit to act as his aides in applying torches to light the fire.

Cub Scouts will make a house-to-house canvass Saturday morning gathering trees. They will place these trees on curbs at corners where later in the afternoon Scouts and Explorers, with the assistance of four trucks supplied by local firms and offices, will pick them up.

If a tree has not been picked up by 5 p.m., Marionites are requested to call 3-1883.

The public is invited to be present at this ceremony being described as "the largest legal fire i Marion."

This Boy Scout project has the cooperation of the Mayor, the Safety - Service Director, the schools, and the Fire Department, Scout officials say.

VA Payments Up $4 Million in Ohio

CLEVELAND (AP)—The regional office of the Veterans Administration announced today that it paid out some $61,310,308 this year, a jump of $4,046,349 over 1952.

The office serves 38 Ohio counties.

Payments of pensions and compensation to veterans and their beneficiaries, acocunted for the largest increase. This year $45,660,377 was spent, a boost of $6,919,907 over 1952.

Subsistence payments to veterans in school amounted to $5,694,587, a decrease of $1,274,418.

Chicagoan's Shot at Brother-in-Law Misses, He Learns

CHICAGO (AP)—Edward Grenda, 29, dashed into the police station yesterday and shouted: "I've just shot my brother-in-law."

Police found Conrad Wisinskis, 39, standing dazed outside Grenda's apartment. "I'm waiting for the pain to start," he told police.

Both men, police said, were mistaken. The .38-caliber pistol bullet Grenda had fired through a doorway went over Wisinski's head and lodged in the house next door.

Both men were locked up. Wisinski's wife charged him with disorderly conduct. Grenda was arrested for assault with a deadly weapon and for firing a gun within the city limits.

Administration Seen on Trial With Farmers

Will Be Watching Congress Closely, Is View of Sen. Thye

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Thye (R—Minn) said today the "Eisenhower administration is definitely on trial with farmers" at the coming session of Congress.

Thye, a supporter of President Eisenhower and a member of the Senate Agriculture Committee, said farmers "are going to be watching closely what is done in Congress."

The senator, just back from the Midwest, said Eisenhower is as popular as ever with farmers and that they feel better about recent trends.

"In general, there isn't the fear in the minds of the farmers there was eight months ago," he said. "Pork prices have increased, egg prices are solid and there has been a strengthening of beef prices.

"In the last few months fear had made the market softer than even the supplies warranted."

Official confirmation that farm prices had ended a four-month decline came yesterday from the agriculture department, which put the increase for the month ended Dec. 15 at 1.2 per cent.

This left average farm prices about 6 per cent under the level of a year earlier and about 20 per cent below the record high of February 1951. Also, the November-December level was about 5 per cent under that when the Eisenhower administration took office last January.

Farm prices in mid-December averaged 91 per cent of parity, a legal price said by law to be fair to farmers in relation to prices they must pay for things they buy. That compared with 96 per cent a year ago and 122 per cent in October 1946.

Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission, said he could easily screen all prisoners who were not interviewed to give each man a final chance to go home.

Later the Indians all but discarded any plans for a formal screening after learning that the Communists opposed such a procedure.

However, Indian officers indicated they felt a strong moral responsibility to give each prisoner an opportunity to request repatriation.

One source pointed out that the main requirement for a screening is merely to separate the men who want to go home from anti-Communist leaders who bring pressure against them.

The technique used by the Indians in making their head count fulfilled this requirement. The only thing lacking was the deliberate offering of a choice.

Russian Youth Trained From Infancy Exclusively in Doctrine of Communists

Editor's Note—William L. Ryan, in a three-month stay in the Soviet Union, talked to scores of Russians without benefit of interpreters. He traveled 6,000 miles without going on any of the "escorted tours" arranged for most foreigners visiting the Soviet Union. Here, in another of his uncensored stories, he gives an insight into communism's hold on youth.

By WILLIAM L. RYAN
AP Foreign News Analyst

"What do a Russian girl and boy talk about when they go out for an evening on the town?"

Mystification prompted this question to a young Communist-reared woman. I had noted Russians in a restauarant attempting to have a good time and making a pretty glum affair of it. They just seemed to sit and stare at each other.

"Oh," she said, "there are lots of things to talk about"

"What, for example? You are married. Your husband must have courted you. What did you talk about?"

"Oh," she repeated. "There are many things. There's socialist competition, for example."

This is partly nonsense, of course. Basically, young men and women in Russia discuss many of the same things that couples elsewhere talk about. Nevertheless, their attitude toward life shows the effects of sealed off, effective training. The Communist party's system of education from nursery onward captures the choice core of a generation.

The Soviet Communist party put the accent on youth though many youngsters escape the rigid mold. The party is interested principally in talented youngsters who will be indoctrinated and trained to form a hard core from which party leaders of tomorrow will be selected and trained

Every Soviet town has its house or "palace" of Young Pioneers. Theoretically, all Soviet children are members of the Young Pioneers. But those who frequent the palaces are the ones who get special attention until they resemble little robots, responding automatically to commands. The stress is upon development of talent, party education and discipline.

During a trip to a half dozen Soviet republics, I visited some of these Pioneer palaces. The one in Tashkent, capital of the Uzbek S.S.R., seems fairly typical. I went there one Sunday unannounced, and after some argument with the guard at the gate and showing my impressive Red police pass, I was allowed to go in. I was a problem to the woman in charge, but she took me in tow for a guided tour. Fortunately for her, things had been arranged in anticipation of visits from a number of "delegations" including Brazilians, Indonesians and Mongolians.

There were no more than 50 children in the building, with an equal number in the yard outside. The rest of the children of Tashkent (population 600,000) were about other pursuits in the streets and parks. Those in the palace—a long, rambling two-story building surrounded by a slogan-decked fence—were the cream of the talent the Pioneers could boast in various fields. There were about an equal number of young Uzbeks and young Russians. Obediently, they awaited quietly the guests' arrival. They were all done up in their Sunday best, all wearing red neckerchiefs symbolizing the Young Pioneer organization. I was shown the room where children ranging in age from about 7 to 14 discuss Young Pioneer business gravely—like a "little government," the guide said. Such a meeting apparently already had been arranged.

In another room, 18 boys and girls bent over chessboards playing a simultaneous match with a local chess master.

In other rooms I was shown children's handicraft, painting and sculpture, some of it remarkably good, and their biological and zoological collections. A class of children in costume was learning Uzbek folk dances. A group of three young accordionists used Italian and German instruments under an instructor's eye.

The children were extremely shy with me, and later, with the delegations. There were no bubbling, rambunctious kids such as one might expect to find in that age bracket in any large group. Somehow they seemed spiritless. The talent was there, beyond question, and the training was there, but the childhood was not. Gravely they did everything they were told to do without hesitation or questions.

The Brazilian delegation, ushered in by a Portuguese-speaking guide, was obviously impressed. Fresh from the Communist World Federation of Trade Unions Congress in Vienna, the Brazilians were expressively enthusiastic about Soviet youth. They gave the impression that they took these children as typical of all Communist-reared youth, although just outside in the streets, as in the streets of any Soviet capital, many a young tough can be seen—loud and rowdy cigarette smoking boys who already have begun to scratch for a living. Children of the better class Communists are shielded from such influences.

The process begins in the nursery. Since most Soviet mothers work children of 3 or 4 are sent to "Dyetskayas"—nurseries—to be cared for and trained during the working day by Russian nurses and teachers. In any Soviet streets, children can be seen in groups of 50 or more going through their paces with teachers watching. They are molded into the Russian and Communist mold.

They will grow up as Uzbek Russians, Tadjik Russians, Kazakh Russians, Azerbaijan Russians. Since all their affairs will be in the Russian language, as the years go by they will have less and less use for their own.

Shielded from information from the outside world which does not fit into the Communist pattern, the children become obedient servants of a Communist society.

Many escape the rigid pattern, however. As the Soviet middle class continues to grow, more and more others are attempting to give up working so they may rear their children themselves.

A tremendous amount of attention is given to children by the Communist party and Soviet government. The education network is growing constantly because no highly industrialized nation can hope to survive in today's world without a broad base of education.

But Communist education comes first.

Program

condemned the policy on grounds it deprives the Southern textile industry of government contracts and places them in New England towns hard hit by unemployment.

Knowland told a news conference late yesterday the order "needs curtailment" and "leaves the door open too wide" for gov- "needs curtailment" and "leaves ernment orders to be set aside from normal procurement methods and channelled into jobless areas.

Favored Amendment

Last summer, during Senate debate on the issue, he favored an amendment which would have forbidden the letting of government contracts to anyone other than the lowest bidder. He did not say yesterday whether he would go that far now.

Observers could not immediately recall an instance when a majority leader, on the eve of a new Congressional session, had taken public issue with his President on an Administration policy and sided with a powerful segment of the opposition party.

Democrats outnumber Republicans, 48 to 47, in the Senate. The 96th seat is held by Sen. Morse of Oregon, an Independent. Thus Eisenhower must have some Democratic votes in the Senate on almost anything he proposes.

Sen. McCarran (D-Nev) said the Eisenhower program could mean "a return to a form of controlled economy, and a pretty ugly and undesirable form."

Claimed 'Socialistic'

Gov. James F. Byrnes of South Carolina, former Democratic Secretary of State who supported Eisenhower for the presidency last year, accused the Administration of adopting with few changes what he termed a "Socialistic" policy. Byrnes, in a statement issued at Columbia, S. C., continued:

"It was wrong when established by a Democratic President and a Democratic Congress. It is equally wrong when followed by the Eisenhower Administration."

White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty, talking to reporters at Augusta, Ga., said most of the criticism was based on misinterpretation. He stressed that a contractor in a labor surplus area must match the low competitive bid of other concerns to get a government contract.

Several Senators said they liked the new policy but that it did not go far enough. Sen. Saltonstall (R-Mass) said in a statement:

"It is gratifying to know that the President endorses in principle the policy of guiding the enormous impact of defense spending in such a way as to make possible the fullest use both of available manpower and of idle plant facilities."

In the absence of such a policy, Saltonstall said, "The effect of government spending is apt to make areas of tight labor supply even tighter and to increase the distress of areas of labor surplus."

WINTER BRIDES LIKE VELVET

NEW YORK (UP) — Velvet is being used for an increasing number of wedding gowns for winter nuptials. One designer features a bridal dress and redingote combination in white. The redingote, cut with a sweeping train, and buttoned at the waistline, is worn over a billowing white tulle dress with strapless top. The dress can be worn later for dancing. The crown-like headdress is of cut velvet leaves, dotted with rhinestones.

Policy Group Plans Study of Subpoena Rule

'Won't Curb McCarthy Investigations,' Says Senate Majority Leader

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Knowland (R-Calif) said today the Senate Republican Policy Committee may study a change in subpoena rules, but he declared there is no GOP move afoot to curb the scope of investigations by Sen. McCarthy (R-Wis).

Knowland, the Senate majority leader, said in an interview the policy group may look into the wisdom of requiring approval by a committee quorum (a fixed number of members that varies by committees) before issuance of any subpoena for witnesses or documents.

Velde Action Cited

This issue was raised last month when Chairman Velde (R-Ill) acted alone in signing a subpoena for former President Truman to testify before the House Un-American Activities Committee in the Harry Dexter White case. Truman refused to honor the subpoena, not because of the way it was issued, but on the ground that Congress may not require an ex-President to testify.

Although there has been no comparable action in the Senate, Knowland said he thinks it might be wise to clarify the rules on this point.

There has been unconfirmed talk that some Republican leaders would like to curb the far-flung investigation activities of McCarthy's permanent investigations subcommittee. Some members of the Senate internal security subcommittee grumbled privately that McCarthy was encroaching on their field of hunting for Communists.

Knowland said he hadn't heard of any move among Republicans to limit McCarthy's activities. He added, however, that he doesn't know what the Democrats may propose.

Delaware County Polio Drive Opens

DELAWARE, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio counties that will take part in the largest test of a polio vacine will be named the second week in January.

Mrs. Beatrice Wright, national assistant director of women's activities of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, told of the big test last night when she spoke at the Delaware County polio fund kickoff dinner.

One million second-graders living in 200 counties throughout the country will be given shots of the vaccine made from three virus types of polio. Shots will be given between Feb. 8 and June 1.

Results of the shots will be watched to determine how effective the new vaccine is.

Search for Bodies Goes On After Tanker Crash

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Authorities today probed the scorched hulls of two tankers which collided and caught fire yesterday in the early morning fog on the Delaware River. Five bodies have been recovered from the river. Four other crewmen are missing and presumed dead.

Rescue craft, meanwhile, continued their patrol of the crash scene, south of Wilmington, Del., and about 25 miles below Philadelphia.

The ships, the 19,00-ton Atlantic Engineer and the 10,600-ton Atlantic Dealer, both owned by the Atlantic Refining Co., arrived at the company's docks here last night. Only U.S. Coast Guard and company officials were permitted aboard.

It passed an emergency ordinance which will make the property part of the city on Jan. 1. The land and steel plant will add 17½ million dollars to Middletown tax duplicates.

Virginian Crowned at Burlington

Champion '53 Liar Stickler for Detail

BURLINGTON, Wis. (AP) — Mr. Bee McIntyre, Richmond, Va., a liar with a penchant for detail, was named today by the Burlington Liars Club as World's Champion Liar for 1953.

He won with this tall tale:

"The strongest wind I ever heard hit our place last summer, along with a slam-bang thunderstorm. The wind was so strong that it picked up our cast-iron wash kettle (about three feet across and about two feet deep) and blew it out of the country.

"And the wind blew that kettle so fast that while it was sailing across our front yard the lightning struck at it five times — and missed."

McIntyre succeeds a Texan, Harry V. Cummings of Dallas, who took the 1952 honors with a tale about mosquitoes he encountered in Korea. Although they were six feet tall they decided to devour him on the spot because they feared that "if we carry him home the big mosquitoes will take him away from us."

Another Texan, L. C. McRoberts of Kingsville, this year won honorable mention with this whopper:

"During drought years on the south Texas coast, Baffin Bay becomes so salty that the fishermen use a bottle of fresh water, with a nipple on it, for bait."

Ray Chitwood, Lost Creek, Wash., also rated honorable mention. He wrote:

"Last fall I pretty near got shot while deer hunting. Coming around a bend in the trail I saw a large buck standing, looking away from me.

"I shot the deer in the back of the head. He turned around so quick to see where the shot came from that the bullet came out between his eyes and went right back into the rifle barrel."

Honorable mention was awarded to William Robinson, Lancaster, Pa., for this one:

"Another fellow and I were building a house. When we were putting on the siding I noticed that he was throwing away about half the nails.

"So I said, 'What's the matter with those nails you are throwing away?'

"'The ones I am throwing away have heads on the wrong end,' he replied.

"That made me mad.

"'You big fool,' I told him. 'Don't you know those are the ones we use for the other side of the house?'"

Shoulders Will Fight Federal Perjury Rap

Ex-Officer Under Indictment

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Former Police Lt. Louis Shoulders, a veteran officer who has survived investigations in the past, now is prepared to fight a federal perjury indictment in an aftermath of the Greenlease kidnaping.

Shoulders, patient and smiling for photographers, posted $10,000 bond here yesterday to remain free while awaiting a call to Kansas City by federal authorities. The bond was posted for Shoulders by a professional bondsman.

The date of Shoulders' arraignment has not yet been announced, but his attorney, Henry G. Morris, told newsmen:

"If it becomes necessary to enter a plea, it certainly will be one of not guilty."

It was Morris, too, who said Shoulders would fight the perjury charge "all the way" and will "meet the issues as they come."

A Kansas City grand jury Tuesday charged in its indictment that the 55-year-old former St. Louis police officer gave false testimony in describing his handling of suitcases containing a portion of the record $600,000 Greenlease ransom money.

A little more than half of the ransom still is missing.

Shoulders has stated the suitcases were brought to a district police station along with Carl Austin Hall—since executed with his accomplice, Bonnie Brown Heady, for the kidnap-slaying of 6-year-old Bobby Greenlease—shortly after his arrest on the night of Oct. 6.

The jury, after studying testimony of other witnesses, alleged Shoulders' statement to be untrue.

Traffic Snarls Headache for Police in Paris

PARIS (INS)—Almost everyone in Paris talks about the daily traffic snarls, but nobody does much about it.

The Paris traffic situation has passed the point of frustration and reached the stage of desperation.

Police officials, however, are not tearing their hair.

What's the use anyway, they ask. Few of their ideas to improve the circulation of traffic, put forward during the past 10 years, have been adopted.

From 1949 to 1952, they say the number of automobiles, motorcycles and trucks registered in the Paris area rose from 378,244 to 604,521.

"Paris is saturated with traffic," a police official said. "All the policemen in the world, all the night-sticks and whistle-blowing won't change the fact that our streets are overloaded."

Solutions suggested have ranged from underground parking facilities to subterranean passages.

First order of business, police say, is too move the sprawling Paris food market, Les Halles from the center of the city to the outskirts. To anyone who has had to crawl through the incredible confusion of trucks unloading produce and pushcarts weaving in and out of traffic this seems like a capital idea.

Another idea advanced is to require garages in all new buildings, so that the tenants do not park in the streets. Public buildings housing the numerous ministries and social services should be moved from the center of town to less congested areas, it was suggested.

In four or five years, it is estimated, the number of vehicles registered in the Paris region will increase again by 30 to 40 per cent.

Officials say this will choke and may eventually kill all commerce in Paris.

The situation is enormously complicated by the unwillingness of authorities in charge of keeping Paris beautiful to allow the widening of streets and the building of necessary garages and underground passages.

The U. S. hydrogen bomb project at Savannah River, S. C. has an estimated cost of a billion and a quarter dollars, more than twice the cost of the Panama Canal.

LOUIS SHOULDERS

Beer Theft Solved By Arrest of Boys

Complaints of residents of drinking parties in automobiles parked late at night on S. Seffner Ave. between Ohio and Mt. Vernon Aves. yesterday led to the solution of a week-old theft of a case of beer from a parked car and the arrest of two 17-year-old Marion youths.

Police began checking the area after the residents complained because the ditches along the street were becoming littered with beer bottles and cans. At 12:46 a.m. yesterday the two youths were caught parked in a car drinking from a partly filled bottle of beer.

Later at the police station they admitted stealing the case of beer reported taken from a car owned by Denny Malloy, operator of a beer and wine store on N. Main St., while it was parked on S. High St. in front of the American Legion Dugout on Dec. 22.

The youths told police they had driven to the corner of Virginia Ave. and Vernon Heights Blvd. after stealing the beer and hid it in some bushes. Police went to the spot indicated by the boys and found a beer case containing six empty bottles.

The two youths will be taken before Marion County Juvenile Judge Edward J. Ruzzo on charges of petty larceny, police said.

Taxes

firms, which can retain more of any expanded earnings.

The excess profits tax has been 30 per cent of income above a standard set by law. Piled on top of the regular 52 per cent corporation income tax, it has imposed a levy of 82 per cent on some corporate income.

After tomorrow, the income tax payroll withholding rate will be reduced from 20 per cent to 18 per cent of income, after allowances for personal exemptions and dependents. Some 46 million workers are subject to withholding.

The increase in social security taxes also will be reflected in the first pay checks after tomorrow. It amounts to a maximum of $18 a year on $3,600 income.

Break-Even Point

The "break even" point—where the two changes almost offset each other—is roughly as follows:

A single man with no dependents, $900 income; a married couple with no dependents, $1,800; married couple with one dependent, $2,700; married couple with two dependents, $3,600; married coupie with three dependents, $4,500.

Most taxpayers in those situations making more than those amounts will have a net increase in take-home pay. Below those figures, they will take a net loss unless and until Congress cancels the social security hike.

Examples of How Reduction Works

WASHINGTON (AP) — This is what tomorrow's cut in individual income taxes will mean, on an annual basis, to taxpayers in selected income groups:

For a single person with no dependents, the percentage reduction in tax is 9.9 per cent at $2,000 income. It climbs to 10.7 per cent at $10,000 income and then drops to 7.3 per cent at $50,000 and 1.9 per cent at $300,000.

For a married couple with two dependents, the percentage reduction starts at 9.9 per cent at low income levels, climbs to 10.7 per cent at $20,000; then drops to 7.4 per cent at $100,000 and 1.6 per cent at one million dollars.

The minimum rate on taxable income drops from 22.2 per cent to 20 per cent. The maximum rate on income above $300,000 drops from 91 to 90 per cent. And the total rate for any one taxpayer's overall income drops from 88 to 87 per cent.

No One Injured In 3 Accidents

Two Mishaps Reported In City, One in County

There were no injuries in the three minor accidents in Marion city and county reported this morning by police and the Marion post of the state highway patrol.

In the one accident investigated by the state highway patrol, a car driven by Isaac Bright, 64, of near Marysville was badly damaged at 8:40 a.m. yesterday on Route 37 about one-mile south of LaRue.

According to the patrol, Bright was heading north when he left the road on the right side, then recrossed the highway, going off on the left side where he rolled over.

He tore up about 20 feet of fence belonging to A. J. Jones of near LaRue and struck a bill board owned by the Ben Blinn Co. of Columbus. Bright's car was badly damaged on the right side and top.

A car driven by Mrs. Mildred Lingo of 340 Girard Ave. was damaged slightly in a mishap at Holmes Pl. and Orchard St. at 12:51 p.m. yesterday involving a truck driven by Nicolia Garaniti, 25, of Mansfield which was not damaged, police said.

Cars driven by Robert L. Johnston, 31, of 348 Willow St. and Maurice Britt, 72, of 339 Carner Ave. were damaged in an accident in front of 146 S. Main St. at 5:30 p.m. yesterday while Johnston was attempting to park his car, police reported.

three-day jail term, but in Marion, the policy of Municipal Court has been to impose five-day terms. Police in the city will attempt wherever possible, to persuade drinkers from entering their cars.

Five extra policemen and five cruisers will be on duty tonight. Most of the force at the state patrol post will also be called into action from 8 p.m. to 4 a.m.

Patrolmen expect a heavy stream of traffic to pass through the county early this afternoon and this evening. After darkness, though, they expect most of the traffic on the roads in the county to be local. The heavy flow of cars is expected to last until the morning hours Friday.

Friday, most activity will be at a slow pace. Football bowl games will be seen on television in the afternoon. The first of these is the Orange Bowl, seen on Channel 10, at 1:30. On Channel 4, the Cotton Bowl will be seen at 1:45, and will be followed by the Rose Bowl at 4:45.

EXTRA-LATE MOVIES will be featured at all theaters in town tonight. In addition, all have announced new shows will be shown tonight and tomorrow.

The Palace will show "Money From Home" tonight only. Starting Friday, the feature will be "Escape From Fort Bravo." The Ohio will feature "Hondo" starting today. Double features will be shown at the Marion and the State. At the former, "Fangs of the Arctic," and "Rebel City" will be shown while at the State, "The Stranger Wore a Gun" and "Untamed Woman" will be the features.

Bars in the city and county will close at their regular times tonight and follow all other rules imposed by their licenses, according to an announcement by the State Board of Liquor Control.

Weather is expected to be chilly and cloudy tonight and tomorrow. The low temperature tonight is slated to be between 15 and 20 degrees. Tomorrow's forecast calls for cloudy weather, with a possibility of snow flurries, although the temperature is expected to be a little warmer.

THE POSTOFFICE announced today it will follow its regular schedule Saturday. City offices will be closed Friday and Saturday. However, the Department of Sanitation will make normal pickups Friday and Saturday.

County offices will all be closed Friday and Saturday except the County School office which will be open part of Saturday morning.

Train and bus traffic is expected to be somewhat heavier than normal, but not as bad as the rush at Christmas time. Most bus runs will have extra sections to handle any surplus in passengers.

Train officials at Union Depot said they did not look for any rush, but said they were prepared to add extra coaches to trains should they be found necessary.

International Playboy, U.S. Heiress Wed

Barbara Hutton Takes Fifth Husband in Civil Ceremony in N.Y.

NEW YORK (AP)—Heiress Barbara Hutton was married yesterday to Porfirio Rubirosa, international playboy and Dominican Republic diplomat. It was her fifth marriage and his fourth.

A 10-minute civil ceremony, conducted in Spanish and English, ended several days of speculation that the mariage might be called off.

Bride All Smiles

The slim, pale, 41-year-old bride was all smiles as the wedding rites began, but toward the end she became visibly nervous. Rubirosa, 45, tall, handsome and composed, put a comforting arm around her.

The marriage was performed by Dr. Joaquin Salazar, Dominican consul general, in his Park avenue apartment.

The bride, in a black taffeta dress, contrasting with her blonde hair, was attended by her 17-year-old son, Lance Reventlow, her only child.

Rubirosa's best man was Maj. Gen. Rafael Trujillo Martinez, head of the Dominican air force and onetime brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Previous Wives

Rubirosa previously was married to Flor Trujillo, daughter of the Dominican Republic's first family; French actress Danielle Darrieux; and Doris Duke, heiress to a U.S. tobacco fortune.

Miss Hutton, known for more than 20 years as the dime-store heiress, formerly was married to the late Prince Alexis Mdivani; Count Kurt von Haugwitz-Reventlow; actor Cary Grant; and Prince Igor Troubetzkoy.

Miss Hutton became a citizen of the Dominican Republic Tuesday in order to go through the ceremony under Dominican law and invoking Rubirosa's diplomatic status as Dominican minister plenipotentiary to France.

Raises Legality Issue

A New York City official said however, that without a New York license such a marriage ceremony was open to legal question so far as state records were concerned.

At a hectic press conference in her Hotel Pierre suite prior to the wedding, Miss Hutton answered "certainly" to a query if her considerable fortune would remain in her own hands.

As for Rubirosa, he said "What property she has is hers, and what property I have is mine."

During the interview Miss Hutton appeared distraught at times. Once she remarked:

"Do you think anyone will give him credit for loving me because I'm myself?".

It was in France last July, they said, that their romance actually began, and Miss Hutton added:

"I loved him from the moment I met him."

'Something Grand'

Rubirosa said Miss Hutton brought into his life "something grand."

Statements by actress Zsa Zsa Gabor that Rubirosa asked her to marry him within the past week brought this retort from Rubirosa: "It's a publicity stunt."

Asked to comment on Miss Gabor's assertions, Miss Hutton replied:

"I'm terribly sorry. I don't know her. I happen to be a lady. I'm terribly sorry."

She sighed and added, "I've been crucified these past few days."

Did she expect her fifth marriage to last?

"I wouldn't try if I didn't think so."

WED IN 'PRIVATE' CEREMONY. American dime store heiress Barbara Hutton kisses her new husband—number five—playboy-diplomat Perfirio Rubirosa after their double-ring wedding ceremony in the Park Avenue apartment of Dr. Joaquim Salazar, consul-general of the Dominican republic, the bridegroom's home country. Two press conferences attended by 100 representatives of newspaper, radio and television preceded the "simple ceremony." The bride wore black and carried a scotch-and-soda. Rubirosa, 47, was married for his fourth time.

Police Cruisers Receive Check of Speedometers

Motorists arrested in Marion on speeding charges henceforth will not be able to dodge behind the defense "Maybe the speedometers in the police cars are wrong, I know mine's right."

Police Chief Tom Coon today received a certification from W. Don Davis, automotive electric service company, as to the accuracy of speedometers in three city police cruisers. According to Davis' reports none of the speedometers in the three cruisers—the only city police cars normally used for traffic enforcement—varied from true speed indication more than three-tenths of a mile an hour at any speed between 10 and 100 miles an hour.

Police car speedometers are checked periodically by Davis to insure their accuracy, Coon said.

When Mt. Pelee erupted on Martinique Island in May, 1902, more than 30,000 people were killed.

Federal Loans Available for Farmers Here

Farmers in Marion County can apply for two of the three possible types of loans available to rural dwellers from the Farmers Home Administration, Secretary of Agriculture Ezra Taft Benson announced today.

Loans available for local farmers are the operating loan and the special livestock loan. Since this area has not been classified a disaster section, farmers are not eligible for the disaster loan program.

Under the operating loan program, farmers may borrow to buy corn, hay, cottonseed meal, and available feed. This loan supplements, but does not compete with other local credit. Loans are granted on the basis of the soundness of the farmer's program.

Established producers of cattle, sheep, and goats may obtain the special livestock loan to buy feed and hay, obtain pasture facilities, replace livestock to normal levels, and handle needs brought on by drought conditions. They were made available late in the summer.

Applications for operating and special livestock loans or for loans for buying or improving efficient farms and buildings can be made at the office of H. V. Anderson, County Supervisor of the Farmers Home Administration, Courthouse, Mt. Gilead.

Marion Takes Fourth Straight From Troy Skaters

Two Goals in Final Period Bring Barons 3-2 Verdict

Marion's Barons continued their mastery of the Troy Bruins last night with a 3-2 victory at the Coliseum rink. The Barons were forced to come from behind in the last period with two goals to notch their fourth win of the season against the visitors. They have yet to lose to Troy.

Gordon Vejprava shoved in the winning goal with a minute and 25 seconds to go. It was the first time during the game the Barons had taken the lead.

Unassisted Score

Vejprava grabbed a Troy pass in the Marion defensive zone and raced the length of the rink to score. He faked two Bruin defenders out of position and also drew the Troy goalie off balance. He was unassisted on the score.

The win left the Barons in sixth place with 34 points, only one behind fifth-place Grand Rapids. Johnstown and Troy are tied for third with 36 points while Toledo is in second with a 37-point total. The Barons and Toledo meet in a pair of games this weekend. Cincinnati remains at the top of the league with 41 points.

After a scoreless first period, the Bruins forged into a 2-1 lead during a hard-fought second stanza. George Edwards shoved his mates into the lead when he scored after only 51 seconds of the period. He took a pass from Coach Norm McAtee and drove the disc past Goalie Lou Crowdis from about nine feet out. Joe Ingoldsby and Murray Wilkie combined to put the Barons back into the game at the 5:43 mark. Wilkie intercepted a Troy pass at center ice and raced into the offensive area down the right side. Ingoldsby took his pass on the left side and scored after Troy's Julie Klymkiw had been faked out of position.

The score remained knotted until Bobby Rawlyk broke loose after 16:43 of play had passed. McAtee and Edwards along with Rawlyk went down the rink in a three-on-two maneuver for the score.

Barons Perk Up

The Barons, who had been unable to practice since Sunday's game, broke loose in the third period. They had been idle because the ice had been covered with the basketball floor for two nights.

In that third period, the offense perked up and the Bruins were skating in circles in an effort to stem the tide. Klymkiw managed to beat the Marion attack off until 8:48 had gone by the boards. Then Tony Poeta knotted the count at 2-2 when he shoved the pellet into the net from a scramble in front of the goal. Klymkiw had just succeeded in batting away three attempts but was unable to reach the free disc. Hal Jones and Ken Schultz were credited with assists. Vejprava's winning tally followed.

Klymkiw received 23 saves during that dubious third period. The Barons threatened several times to break the tie with furious assaults on the goal but the Troy goalie stood off the drives.

Marion fans were frightened twice during the second period when Baron stars were shaken up. Wimpy Jones was helped from the floor after a spill in which he suffered a bruised leg and Coach Ott Heller was caught in the face by a high, hard shot by a Troy skater. Both returned after being patched up, however. Heller's eye was cut slightly but didn't hinder his actions.

Six Penalties

The second period was marked by six rules infraction, two against Garnet Schai, the International League's 'bad boy.' Schai added six minutes to his time in the penalty box.

Shelby Night was observed at the Coliseum with fans from Shelby being honored. The game ended the Barons' action at home until Sunday afternoon at 3 when the Toledo Mercurys move in. The same two teams will meet Saturday night at the Toledo Arena before the return match here Sunday. The two teams met last month in a two-game series and the Toledo match resulted in a brawl in which 19 penalties were called for a total of 58 minutes in the penalty box.

Five Former Harding Cage Stars Registered for Play

Five more ex-Harding cagers have signed up to take part in tomorrow night's alumni game at the new school gym, Ken Somerlot, Harding athletic co-ordinator, announced today.

One of the men just signed is Dick Mulvaine, a top star of the early 40's. A 1943 graduate, he holds the central district scoring record for a single tournament game—39 points.

Mulvaine will manage one of the teams in tomorrow's event, while Howard Gilbert, 1941, will handle the other squad.

Gerald Strauss, a Harding cager in the 30s, is another one of the five who have just agreed to play. Another is Don Johnson, a top court performer in the late 40s who has just signed as a pitcher with the Cincinnati Reds.

The remaining two are also familiar to Harding basketball followers. They are Dick Riddle, 1948, and Jimmy Russell, 1952.

Game time has been set for 8:15. A 50-cent admission charge and 25 cents for students will be charged with the proceeds being used to defray the costs of an automobile crash in which several of the Harding cross country runners were involved last fall.

SCORES 30 POINTS

Glen Butterman dropped in 30 points, all from the field, as his Bucyrus team lost to Elyria 57-54 there Tuesday night. It was incorrectly reported in Wednesday's Star that all his points came from the foul line.

Iberia, Donians Win in Finals Of Carnival

IBERIA — Iberia's cagers won the second annual Iberia holiday tournament here Wednesday night by thumping Leesville 91-71 after Caledonia edged Plymouth 51-48 in the consolation match for third place.

The entire starting lineup for Iberia hit in double figures as the winners established a new school scoring record. Iberia outscored the losers in every quarter and pulled away during the second half to clinch the victory.

With Kay Zeger, Howard Miller, Walt Chambers, Charles Miller and Don Robinson popping baskets in consistently, Iberia raced to a 20-17 advantage in the opening quarter and widened it to 44-36 at halftime. Iberia rolled to a 63-50 lead at the three-quarter mark and a 28-point outburst in the final canto iced the game.

Joe Smith, Leesville center who popped in 50 points against Caledonia the night before, was held to 27 by Iberia's defense. Thirteen of his points came from the 16 free throws he was awarded. Don Robinson with 26 and Walt Chambers with 25 were the big guns for the winners.

Caledonia led most of the route in edging Plymouth for third place honors. The winners jumped out front 11-7 at the first quarter and increased their bulge to 26-15 at halftime before the losers got hot. The Plymouth club dumped in 20 points during the third period to get back in the game. The final period was marked by five ties, with Joe Green of Caledonia tying the score at 45-45 on a bucket and Dickerson dumping in a basket with two and one-half minutes remaining for a lead which the winners never relinquished.

Pacing the attack for the winners, who clicked on 41 per cent of their charity tosses, was Dickerson with 16 points. Fox was high for the losers with 17 points.

Iberia was awarded the championship trophy offered by the Iberia Booster Club and the annual cheerleaders plaque for good sportsmanship and spirit was presented to Plymouth.

Rosewall Beats Seixas To Give Aussies Crown

MELBOURNE (AP) — Ken Rosewall, a pint-sized racquet rifleman of 19 saved the coveted Davis Cup for Australia today by mowing down America's depressed Wimbledon champion, Vic Seixas, 6-2, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4 in the climatic fifth match of the Challenge Round.

Nervous as a kitten at first, but inhaling confidence as Seixas fell into the simplest errors, the dark-haired Syndey youngster swept past his opponent in 93 minutes to give the Aussies a 3-2 victory and their 11th triumph since the series started in 1900.

This was the fourth straight year the lads from Down Under have beaten off the Yanks in the Challenge Round. The Americans won from 1946 through 1949.

Although neither Rosewall nor Seixas played above-average tennis in the technical sense of the word, it was a good match from a competitive standpoint and the crowd of 17,500 that filled every seat in the Kooyong stadium got a big kick out of it.

But the Australian had the weapons to run it out although Seixas fought off three match points. Vic went down fighting, but, at times he was discouraged by seemingly adverse decisions. He simply didn't have the ground strokes to win.

When it was all over, the spectators gave young Rosewall a standing cheer and showered the center court with seat cushions. Officials appealed repeatedly for order but the fans in the huge three-tier oval burst into a wild frenzy and ignored the appeals.

Rosewall deserved everything. The youngster came back from a severe case of Davis Cup jitters which forced Captain Harry Hopman to bench him in the doubles. He lost his first singels match to America's Tony Trabert and was so unimpressive that he was replaced by Rex Hartwig for the tandem event.

He had one big psychological advantage, and that was that he had beaten Seixas in all their previous half-dozen meetings. For some unknown reason, Vic, even at his best, has folded before Rosewall. And Seixas was not at his best today. Nor has he been since he arrived in Australia.

Now with Rosewall and his fellow 19-year-old, Lewis Hoad, ready to fight of the challenge for years to come, the question arises: When will the United States win back the cup? The Aussies are betting it will be a long time.

Service Diver Wins Sullivan Award of 1953

By JACK HAND

NEW YORK (AP)—Major Sammy Lee, twice an Olympic platform diving champion but inactive all year, is the 1953 winner of the James E. Sullivan Memorial Trophy as amateur athlete of the year.

Stationed in Korea with the Army Medical Corps, the ear-nose-throat specialist has been unable to compete in any 1953 national championship. The 5-foot-2 American-born Korean is the first diver to get the award and the oldest winner at the age of 33.

Lee practically wrote himself out of the competition in a letter to Jesse Abramson, New York Herald Tribune track expert. "I know that I will not win it," he wrote of the Sullivan Award. "I did not compete in any national championships this year . . . whoever wins the award this year will certainly feel a little embarrased I'm sure. As for me, I'm darned proud of being mentioned."

The major won easily from the field of eight, certified by the Sullivan Memorial Committee of which Avery Brundage is chairman.

Absent from the list, because their amateur status is being investigated, were Mal Whitfield, two-time Olympic 800-meter champ and world record holder for 880 yards, and Wes Santee, the University of Kansas' 4:02.4 miler. Whitfield got seven write-in votes for first and Santee four write-ins for second.

Lee, however, received 247 firsts of the 631 ballots cast by a tribunal of sports authorities. On a 5-3-1 point basis, Lee had 1,676 points. Last year he was runnerup to track star Horace Ashenfelter.

The award is made by the A.A.U. to "the amateur athlete who, by performance, example and good influence, did most to advance the cause of good sportsmanship during the year."

A distant second to Lee was another diver, Mrs. Patrick Keller McCormick of Los Angeles with 94 firsts and 1,045 points. Mrs. McCormick scored a springboard platform double in the 1952 Olympics.

DRAWS SUSPENSION

TROY, Ohio (AP)—Rod McElroy, wingman for the Troy Bruins International Hockey League team, was suspended indefinitely yesterday for refusal to pay a $100 fine for missing a game at Grand Rapids, Mich., last Saturday.

'MISS BIG TEN'. Donna Means, blonde co-ed from Michigan State College, chosen "Miss Big Ten" from among 500 competing girls, arrives in Pasadena, Calif., to reign over traditional pre-Rose Bowl events. Donna will ride on the Spartan float in the New Year's Day parade.

Marion Elks Prep For Annual District Bowling Tourney

A total of 30 members from the local Elks Lodge are expected to participate in the 10th annual North Central District Ohio Elks Handicap Bowling Tournament at Avon Lake Recreation at Lorain. Lorain Lodge of Elks No. 1301 is host lodge for the tourney which opens Jan. 9 and extends on consecutive weekends through Jan. 31.

Some 113 five-man teams, 296 two-man teams and 592 individuals are entered. A prize list in excess of $2,300 is expected to be offered, compared with $2,042.73 offered in 1953 when the tourney was held at Palace Recreation alleys here. The 1954 tournament will again be run on a handicap basis except the all events which is based on actual pin fall.

Lodges from Elyria, Lorain, Norwalk, Delaware, Mansfield, Sandusky, Ashland, Wooster, Willard, Galion, Mt. Vernon and Bellevue in addition to Marion will be represented in the tourney. Galion is expected to send 24 men and Delaware 50. Elyria is sending the most entrants, 128. Lorain will have 96 bowlers there.

Dale Livingston of Lorain is this year's tournament manager. Robert Horn of Mansfield is chairman of the North Central District Ohio Elks Bowling Association, Thomas Gilliland of Delaware is first vice president and Robert Linser of Bucyrus is an honorary vice president.

Bird-McGinnis Cagers Defend Unbeaten Slate

McMillen Feed, Bird-McGinnis and Alloy captured wins in YMCA Industrial and Independent League play Wednesday night at the Y. For McMillen and Alloy it was their first victories of the current campaign while Bird-McGinnis maintained a clean slate with its third win of the season.

McMillen edged the UAW-CIO in a thriller which saw the score tied eight times in the final half. McMillen moved to a 19-9 first quarter lead but lost the lead in the second half as the Marion Industries union team came up with a rally to tie the score at 31-31. McMillen again moved to a two-point lead going into the final period and with a minute to go were three points to the good. With five seconds to go and trailing by one point Williams of the UAW-CIO was fouled and made his first attempt but missed the second. McMillen recovered the rebound and as Chapman moved down the floor he was fouled just as the game ended. Chapman missed his first try but connected on his second attempt to give McMillen the verdict by a 53-52 count.

Bird - McGinnis dropped Raymond 39-29 in a low scoring affair in the second game. Playing possession ball the winners moved to a 9-8 first period lead and gradually increased the margin. Raymond made a brief spurt in the third period when it closed the gap to 24-21 but could not maintain the pace. Ken Jones led the winners with 11 points while Chuck Kincaid had 10 for the losers.

Alloy defeated the Waldo Merchants 52-43 in the final game. The winners broke up the game in the final eight minutes of play after holding a one-point lead at the end of the first quarter, the half and third period. Three layup shots with no defense around in the final quarter sent Alloy on a rally which netted 16 points to Waldo's 7. Johnson and Garver led Alloy with 17 points each while McKenzie of Waldo took scoring honors for the game with a total of 20 points.

Johnny Mize To Serve As Coach for Richmond

RICHMOND, Va. (AP) — Johnny Mize, who retired as a pinch-hitter deluxe with the world champion New York Yankees after the 1953 season, today was signed as a part-time coach for Richmond's if-and-when International League baseball team.

The announcement of Mize's signing came from Mize's home in Deleon Springs, Fla., and was made by Harry C. Seibold, industrialist who will operate the city's Triple A franchise—if it is obtained.

3 Rated Even

Defense Expected To Play Major Part in Bowl Tilts

NEW YORK (AP)—Close observers figured today a total of seven touchdowns should decide the five major New Year's Day football bowl games.

Three of the contests—the Rose, the Orange and the Gator—looked close enough that the winning margin in each might be a touchdown or less.

The Sugar Bowl and the Cotton Bowl appeared a little more one-sided, although not by more than a couple of touchdowns apiece.

Maryland continues to rate a slight nod over Oklahoma in the Miami Orange Bowl clash between what on paper are the two highest ranking clubs. The unbeaten Terrapins of Jim Tatum won 10 games in gaining the No. 1 rating in the Associated Press poll. Oklahoma lost its opener by a touchdown to Notre Dame and was tied by Pittsburgh but wound up No. 4.

The condition of Bernie Faloney's left knee may make this game even closer. Faloney injured the knee in his last regular game against Alabama and it's not right yet, although trainer Duke Wyre says he will be available for some action.

Michigan State figures to start a new Big Ten winning streak in the Rose bowl at the expense of UCLA but it isn't nearly as strong a favorite as the Midwest clubs often are at Pasadena. UCLA pins its hopes on All-America Paul Cameron. Both teams are in fine condition.

The Gator Bowl at Jacksonville finds Texas Tech, highest scoring major team in the country, rated over Auburn, another explosive outfit from the Southeastern Conference. The team that can muster the most defense probably will prevail.

Georgia Tech's Engineers should extend Coach Bobby Dodd's winning bowl record to five games in their Sugar Bowl meeting with West Virginia at New Orleans. But the boys from the hills may prove every bit as good as their 8-1 record, which has been criticized in some quarters for including some relatively weak foes.

Coach Art Lewis has drilled his Mountaineers hard for the past 10 days. Tech has been satisfied with only one full-scale drill.

Injuries have plagued both of the Cotton Bowl foes. Alabama and favored Rice, with Alabama the hardest hit.

Quarterback Albert Elmore, injured in a car crash during the Christmas vacation, definitely will not suit up, Alabama Coach Red Drew said last night. He added that two other regulars, right end Bud Willis and right guard Charles Eckerly, would see only limited action as will Curtis Lynch, who is supposed to understudy Willis on the flank.

All America Kosse Johnson of Rice was still limping at yesterday's practice session and did no contact work.

Green Camp Team Wins Initial Start

The newly-organized Green Camp K of P basketball team dumped a team composed of former Morral and Pleasant High School cagers 51-41 Wednesday night in its first start.

The game was played in the new Green Camp High School gymnasium. Al Stover sparked the Green Camp attack with 13 markers. Paul Sheppard came in with 12 and Dick Porter notched 11. Other members of the winning team were Gene Marsh with 8, Don Kempton with 4, Stan Seiter with 1, and Jerry Criswell with 2. Huston Ackley topped the Pleasant-Morral attack with 15. Bill Merrow had 2, Bernie Martin 2, Bob Baughman 8, J. Higgins 7, D. Higgins 2, Dick Saxton 3, and Whiteman 2.

The Green Camp quintet is seeking games with teams from this area at home or on the road. Teams should write or call Don Kempton at Green Camp 4-3112.

QUITS TROY POST

TROY, Ohio (AP) — Howard Hoffman has resigned as Troy High School head football coach but will remain on the faculty as a mathematics instructor. This fall, Hoffman's only season as head coach, Troy lost nine straight games. He had been Troy line coach since 1943.

Stays Home New Year's Eve

Little Guy Feels He's Getting Smarter

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON (AP)—The little guy felt pretty good about it all. He was getting a little smarter, he thought. This was one New Year's Eve when he was going to stay home and go to bed early.

"Hey, Mama," he said to his wife, who was shortening the sleeves on the plaid sport shirt she had bought him for Christmas. "You don't mind if we don't go out tonight?"

He knew she didn't. They had talked about it before and agreed they'd stay home. He just wanted to talk about it again. "No," she said "I'm getting a little old for that hopping around."

He told her: "It's not a matter of getting older. It's just a matter of getting a little smarter."

She looked up at him, holding the scissors in one hand and the half-cut cuff in he other. She needed her glasses for sewing but not for looking across the room. She took of the glasses.

"Well, if we're getting smarter," she said, "we're not just suddenly getting smarter. We didn't go out last New Year's Eve. Or the New Year's Eve before that. Or the one before that."

That was true. He couldn't argue. But just when had they stopped going out on New Year's Eve? He couldn't remember exactly. It was a good while ago, though.

There was a time—a time? Most of his life except these past few years—when all he wanted on New Year's Eve was out, out of the house, and parading around on New Year's Eve.

Maybe they stopped going out when he first asked himself: What do you get out of all the activity on New Year's Eve? He knew one thing he used to get: a lot of headaches the next day.

One thing that always bothered him about New Year's parties was the way people acted just at midnight, including him.

Boom. Midnight. Everybody began yelling and blowing horns, if they had horns. Me too, he thought. Was it just because the new year was coming in? The way people acted you'd think they had just manufactured the new year.

Just thinking about it made him feel like going out again this New Year's Eve too. The urge didn't last long. Why didn't it? Was he really getting smarter or just older, as his wife said?

He certainly didn't feel any older. Maybe, of course, it hits you in ways you never think about.

Like what? Well, like running. He wouldn't know about that. He never had to do any running anyway. But he did read about people like ballplayers being called old men at 35 because their legs were gone.

Gray hair was one good sign of getting older. Who said so? His hair was gray all right but that didn't have anything to do with how he felt on the inside.

One thing that did bother him was the business of getting farsighted after 40. He certainly needed glasses for reading. He got up and went over to the mirror.

Before he reached it he took off his glasses so he could see himself as he really was. Glasses always make you look older. He knew that.

He wanted to see himself as he really was. He hadn't changed too much. For instance, he liked plaid sport shirts when he was 21 and he still liked them.

"I have news for you," his wife said. He knew the tone. It was flat, calm, and loaded. This was the opening gambit, the preliminary statement. He didn't know what was coming but he was going to get it.

She said: "You don't look a day over 21."

"Cut it out," he said, "I didn't say anything."

"One thing puzuzles me, though," she said.

"Okay," he said. "What?

"Oh,' she said, "it was just that when you were really 21 you never talked about being wiser, you just talked about going out."

Cleveland Bus Driver Hits Traffic 'Jackpot'

CLEVELAND (AP) — Bus driver Delaney Williams, 32, hit the traffic jackpot yesterday. He got three tickets for violations committed in less than a mile of driving.

The charges were the same in each case: failing to pull his bus to the curb on discharging passengers.

Patrolman Clement Kramer notified the driver of the first offense. He said he then followed him in his patrol car and Williams did the same thing twice within the next eight blocks.

Sabotage Slows Soviet Plans in East Germany

BERLIN, (NANA) — Sabotage is holding up Russian efforts to build an East German Air Force, according to U. S. intelligence officers. The Russians have been toiling for more than two years to build a so-called "people's air police" force in East Germany. Some 5,000 men have been assigned to air units.

The Russians have been balked, however, by anti-Communists infiltrating into ground crews and administrative posts. So much so that the Soviets complain that many high-ranking officers (up to and including the rank of colonel) have been furnishing the West's intelligence agents with a continuous flow of material about the new "people's air police."

Because of defective maintenance there have also been frequent crashes of training planes. These crashes have not only meant that the "people's air police" has lost many machines but they have also caused many student pilots to dread going aloft.

Within the last six months nearly 200 officers and men have been arrested on charges of "treason" and sentenced to concentration camps.

POLICE CHIEF RESIGNS

GREENFIELD, Ohio (AP)—Police Chief Kenneth George resigned yesterday effective Jan. 1. Mayor-elect Glenn Penn said he asked the resignation because he was dissatisfied with the way George conducted his office. George, police chief since May 1952, gave no reason for resigning.

PRESIDES OVER MEETING

Miss Arena Hinds presided and also conducted the devotions at a meeting of the Marion Chapter of the Ohio Retired Teachers Association Saturday, at the home of Mrs. Dorothy Klehm. It was incorrectly stated that Mrs. Klehm officiated in The Star's account of the meeting, Tuesday.

IN COLUMBUS HOSPITAL

Mrs. Nora Johnston, a former resident of the Green Camp area and more recently a housemother at Ohio Wesleyan University, is reported to be in "fair" condition at University Hospital in Columbus. She was admitted there Saturday and underwent surgery Monday.

Unemployment Up Only 10,000 Over Year Ago

Industrial and Rail Layoffs Idle 53,000 From 20 Million Total

By The Associated Press

Recent and planned layoffs of employes in industry and railroads which employ nearly 20 million workers, total 53,000 a survey has disclosed.

The nation's total unemployed, as of November, was 1,428,000, an increase of only 10,000 from November 1952. Of the 61,925,000 workers in all gainful occupations in November, 16,711,000 were in manufacturing industries and 2,956,000 in railroads.

The Associated Press survey showed that most of the 53,000 workers were laid off in the last few weeks or face unemployment by the middle of January. Although most of the layoffs appeared to be of the long-term type, there appeared openings in other fields.

Railroads and related industries appeared hardest hit by the recent layoffs, the Associated Press survey disclosed. At least 18,680 rail workers have lost their jobs or face unemployment in the near future.

At Columbus, Ohio, the Buckeye Steel Casting Co. has laid off between 1,300 and 1,400 within the last 60 days because of fewer railroad orders. The firm makes railroad wheel trucks and couplings.

In the steel industry, layoffs have included 5,000 in Republic steel plants in Ohio and Alabama, and 1,750 at Timken Roller Bearing at Canton, Ohio. Two other firms at Canton and Youngstown believe they will rehire those laid off in a few weeks.

In the rubber industry at Akron, Ohio, Goodyear has laid of 1,180; Firestone 500, Goodrich 700 and Seiberling, 553.

The Cadillac tank plant of General Motors Corp. and the Chase Brass & Copper Co. both in Cleveland today announced layoffs totaling 375 workers.

The Bingham-Herbrand Corp., in Fremont, Ohio, will lay off 300 workers between now and Jan. 15 because of lack of orders.

Car, Truck Collide, Galion Girl Critical

Special to The Star

BUCYRUS — Twelve-year-old Jane Hocker, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Hocker of near Galion, remained today in "critical" condition in Bucyrus City Hospital suffering from head injuries received late Wednesday morning in a head-on auto-truck collision four miles east of Bucyrus on Route 30-N.

Four other members of the Hocker family were injured slightly while Melbourne D. Nettleman, 26, of Bronson, Mich., driver of the truck, escaped injury.

Mrs. Dorothy Hocker, 37, mother of the injured girl and driver of the car, her sons, Ronald, 9, and Michael, 2, were treated at the hospital for lacerations and abrasions and released. Mr. Hocker, 38, received a bruised right leg but was not admitted to the hospital.

State highway patrolmen said Nettleman was driving east with a truckload of steel and the Hocker auto was westbound when the truck swerved over to the left side of the road, striking the Hocker car, which was demolished. The truck was damaged slightly.

Nettlemen was arrested by state patrolmen and pleaded guilty Wednesday afternoon to a charge of unsafe operation at his arraignment before Mayor Nelson Lee in Crestline. He was fined $40 and costs.

N.Y. Stock Quotations

NEW YORK (AP)—Stocks milled around with considerable indecision today, but they managed nevertheless to make some modest progress in an active market.

Gains ran to around a point in a few instances while losses were entirely fractional in key divisions.

Trading was brisk at a rate above yesterday's 2,050,000 shares. The pace marked the third straight day of trading past the two million mark.

Railroads did better than any other major section. Also higher on balance were steels, motors, coppers, rubbers, distillers, radio-televisions, farm implements, and chemicals. The margin of gain in some cases was rather small. Other groups were steady to mixed.

Higher stocks included Southern Railway, U. S. Steel, General Motors, Kennecott Copper, Du Pont, General Electric, and Distillers Corp.

ANNIE ROONEY — By Darrell McClure

NOW THAT YOU HAVE TAKEN A GOOD, LONG WALK IN THE COUNTRY, CAN YOU REMEMBER WHERE AND WHEN YOU SAW LITTLE ANNIE ROONEY?
SORRY, NO DICE — MY FEET ARE HOT AND MY BRAIN IS FROZEN — BUT I'LL NOT STOP UNTIL I REMEMBER, EVEN IF I HAVE TO WALK TEN TIMES AROUND TEXAS —
HERE'S A LARGE BOOK THAT TEACHES YOU HOW TO REMEMBER — JUST READ IT AND MAYBE YOU'LL LEARN SOMETHING — YOU READ IT — AND MAYBE YOU'LL LEARN NOT TO BOTHER ME WHEN I'M EXHAUSTED!
